"THERE is no age limit on mental work," says Henry Ford, who has passed 65. He says men past 65 should not do too much running and jumping, but can do as much mental work as ever and better work.

Man's mysterious thinking power should not wear out, but the physical machine in which it works does wear out. Henry Ford would not keep any chauffeur that treated a machine as he treats the machine named Henry Ford.

ON SATURDAY last Henry Ford left Binghamton, N. Y., in the morning and drove in a ...ll Ford car steadily all day to ...ome in Dearborn, beyond De... more than 400 miles, reaching there the same night.

...t is a crime against the Ford ...ny, and if Henry Ford did ...wn all the stock other stock...rs would complain. Four ...red miles in one day in a ... car means thousands of un...scious efforts of the brain, eyes and nerves, constantly on the alert. It means waste.

Henry Ford should remember that it is easy to get a new Ford when the old one wears out, but impossible to get a new Henry Ford.

EACH of three Boy Scouts that went to Africa with Mr. and Mrs. Martin Johnston shot a magnificent lion and saw 104 lions in all.

Wonderful excitement for three 15-year-old Scouts. But the lion, with all his power, is a timid creature.

THE little Bushman, one of the lowest of human beings, too feeble to hurt big game on his own account, tracks the lion, while the latter is hunting. The lion kills a zebra or other animal, then the little Bushman ...res away the king of beasts, and gorges himself on the lion's "kill." The Bushman can think a little. That beats the lion.

ROMAN coins dug up after 2,000 years are worth in silver and gold only what they were when buried.

This shows the importance of keeping your money earning interest. A silvery penny, like the one mentioned in the Bible, put out at interest, compounded annually for only 900 years, would amount to $1,270,000,000,000. That's more money than there is in the world.

STUDENTS of Bangalore, India, annoyed by an unworthy site allotted to an image of their particular god started riots. A regiment of lancers from Mysore quieted them. Fifty-five went to the hospital.

How much more sensible to have allowed their god to pick out his own site, take it and maintain it despite the authorities. If he couldn't do that, he couldn't be much of a god.

RADIO RECORDS RETIREMENT SPEECH

Gene Tells The World

DEMPSEY OUT FOR TITLE

By DAVIS J. WALSH,
International News Service Sports Editor.

NEW YORK, Aug. 1.—Gene Tunney was only a private citizen today, no longer the man who is, but now the man who was— a state of affairs brought about by the act of his own hand—his public disavowal yesterday of the heavyweight championship.

An hour before he made the announcement, that other famous "widower" of the profession, Jack Dempsey, promptly retired from retirement, as he so often averred he wouldn't, and if there is no connection to be seen between these circumstances, then somebody ought to be entitled to the packet of pencils, the tin cup and the dark glasses right away and a trifle sooner.

The writer is not presuming to declare that one man's retirement and the other's return mean beyond doubt that Dempsey and Tunney ultimately will meet in the championship ring for the third time. But there is no evidence on hand to indicate that it won't happen. Dempsey shouted from the housetops that nothing would induce him to come back. He is back. It, therefore, might seem reasonable to suppose that Tunney's representations of yesterday may be almost equally imperm...nent in their effect.

ANOTHER "NATURAL"

The fact of the matter is that Dempsey never would have signed with Tex Rickard yesterday to meet the winner of the latter's heavyweight tournament next summer if he believed this action would lead to another meeting with Tunney. He wants no more of that young man. But suppose Dempsey regains the title, as many will expect him to do. And suppose Tunney

First With The Latest--- Again!

For the second time in history a heavyweight boxing champion of the world yesterday quit the prize ring. IT WAS NEWS!

Two hours ahead of the other afternoon paper, the Sun-Telegraph in Pittsburgh blanketed the city with an extra edition telling the complete story of Gene Tunney's retirement. That was on the street at 2 o'clock.

Nearly two hours later in the Peach Market edition, the Sun-Telegraph carried an even more comprehensive story, while the other afternoon newspaper printed its first news of Tunney's decision, a small item on Page 1.

Not until 5 o'clock did any other Pittsburgh newspaper than the Sun-Telegraph appear with a complete story of this historical sport upheaval.

Pgh. Man Shot in Florida

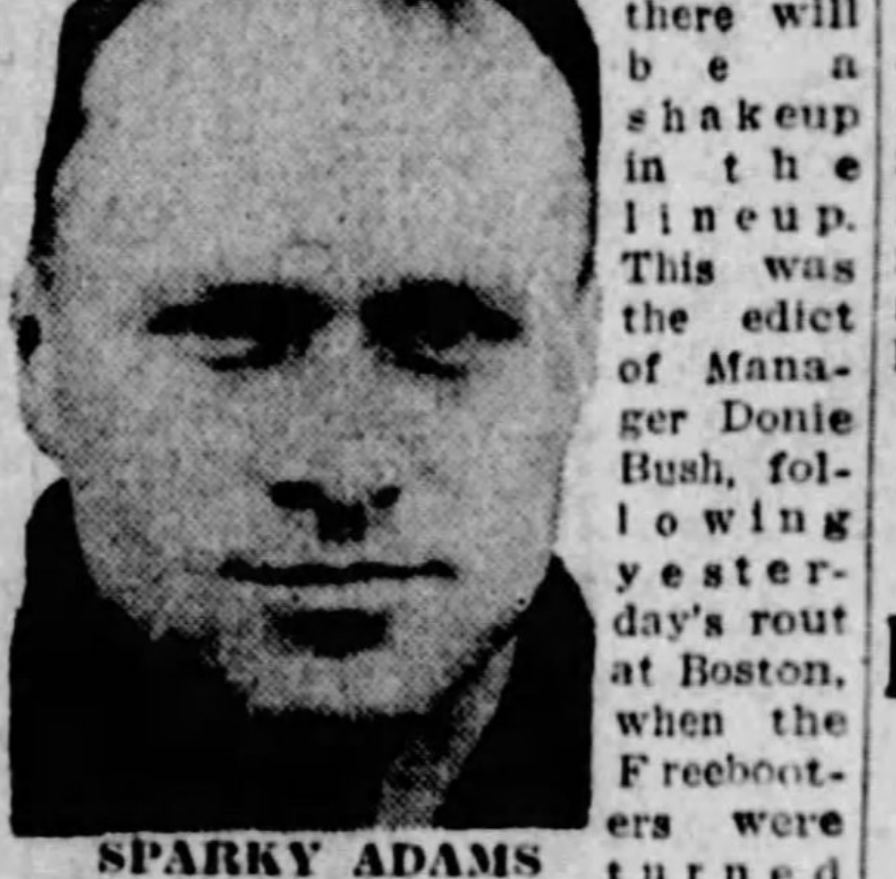
TAMPA, Fla., Aug. 1—(AP.)—Jack Stephens, 71, former deputy sheriff, who fatally wounded Charles Conley, 32, of Pittsburgh, Pa., was formally charged with first degree murder today after Conley died in a local hospital.

Conley was shot yesterday. Police reported that Stephens said he shot the man when Conley tried to get away from him. Conley had asked for clothing at Stephens' home, according to the police statement. Stephens said his suspicions were aroused by the man's action and "I grabbed his arm in order to detain him until the police could investigate."

BUSH TO BENCH ADAMS

By CHARLES J. DOYLE,
Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph Staff Correspondent.

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 1.—Unless there is a noteworthy and immediate brace on the part of certain Pirates there will be a shakeup in the lineup. This was the edict of Manager Donie Bush, following yesterday's rout at Boston, when the Freebooters were turned back by an 11 to 5 count.



SPARKY ADAMS

Manager Bush was particularly displeased with the work of the infield, and with the play of Sparky Adams. In view of the fact that the little second-sacker has not been delivering the goods in the way the Pirate boss thinks he should, it will not be surprising to see Dick Bartell take his place at second base. Adams is a hustler and seems to be trying, but he is not hitting up to snuff and his fielding is not what it should be.

Today's game was postponed shortly before noon because of rain. Two games will be played Saturday.

STRAW VOTE CONTINUED, POSTAL CARDS SENT OUT

By the time this article is being read by the general public there will be in the hands of hundreds of Pittsburghers another form of straw ballot—double postal cards on which an expression of presidential preference is sought.

For more than five weeks the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph maintained six voting machines about the community. This form of balloting proved most satisfactory to the public, and interest in these machines grew each day. When the people go to the polls in November and vote on the proposition of amending the state Constitution to permit ... at el... ...sands of them will know the machines from actual contact.

Danger Seen In St. Car Cut

220 LOSE JOBS BY SPEED RAISE

Two hundred and twenty of the 2,900 motormen and conductors manning Pittsburgh's trolley cars will be placed on the "extra" list by August 6 as a result of reduced running schedules on various street car lines.

Fearing accidents may be increased because of the speeding up of cars, the men employed at the Homewood, Craft Avenue, South Hills and all of the various car barns are formulating plans to have the matter brought to the attention of the executives of Division 85 of the Street Railway Employes Union. Conferences with company officials are expected to follow.

SEE DANGER IN SPEED

It is claimed by the men that the company put on speed men to demonstrate that cars on various routes can be operated more rapidly than they have been, without impairing the service, thus enabling the company to make as many trips as heretofer, but with a reduced number of men and cars.

The move of the company it is claimed has reduced the "regular run" men in some places as much as 20 per cent. Some of the men claim that the company should have reduced schedules gradually and lessened the risk of possible accidents.

FORCED TO CUT COST

Thomas Fitzgerald, vice president of the Pittsburgh Railways Company, explained today "the movement of street cars had been improved," and that he "hoped to make the average rate of speed nine and one-half miles an hour-less than a mile an hour increase."

"The improved schedules," he said, "are based on careful ob-

Banker to Use Plane Instead of Auto

NEW CASTLE, Pa., Aug. 1.—Robert C. Love, millionaire banker, the first New Castle resident to purchase an airplane for non-commercial purposes, arrived here yesterday from New York in his new Avro Avian biplane, a late type English plane, accompanied by Capt. Ronald Smith, World War flier.

Capt. Smith will remain here several weeks instructing Mr. Love and his mechanic, after which Mr. Love plans to fly about the country on business and pleasure, as he has been accustomed to drive his automobile.

The plane is equipped with Handley-Page slotted wings as a tail-spin preventive, and its wings may be folded back so as to permit the machine to be placed in a garage.

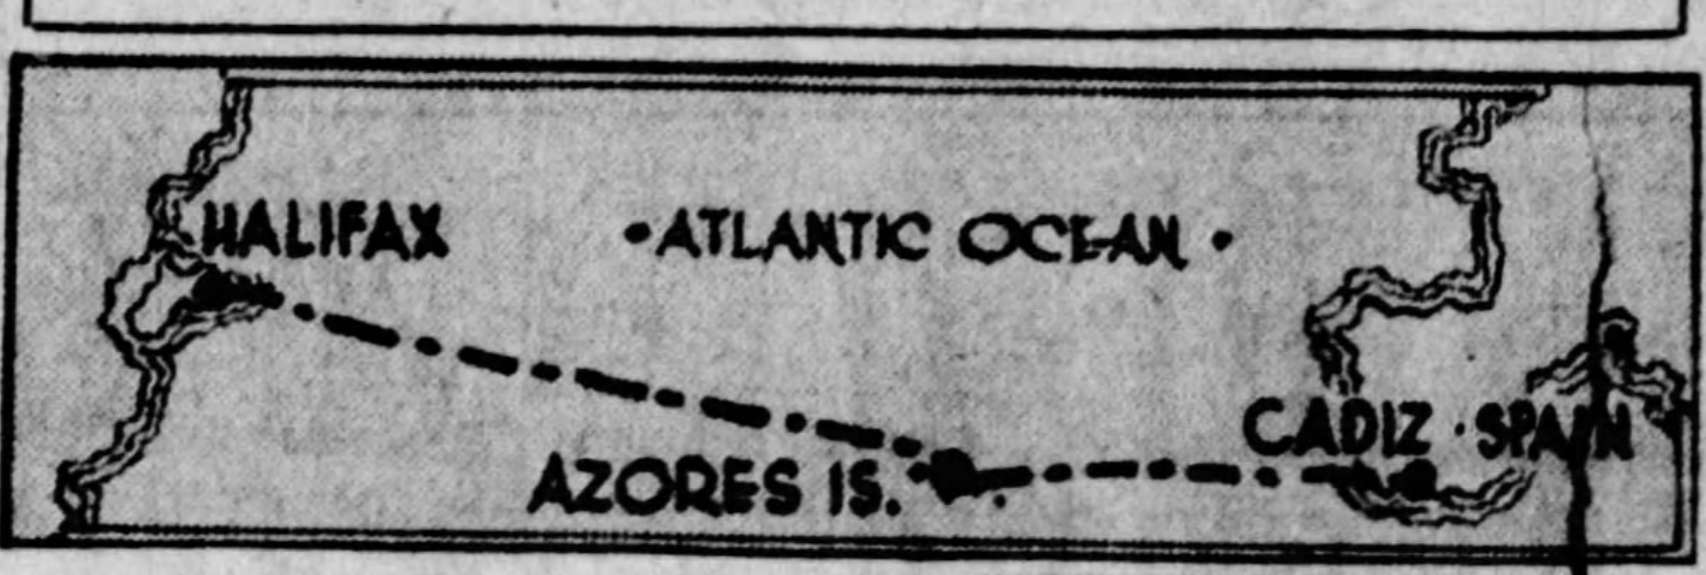
Off Around Globe!



OVER ATLANTIC

Maj. Ramon Franco in a four-motored Dornier seaplane today flies over the Atlantic Ocean, bound for the Azores on his way around the world. From the Azores he will fly to Halifax or Placentia, N. F., and thence across North America.

4 HOP ON WORLD FLIGHT

International News Service.

CADIZ, Spain, Aug. 1.—Bound for the Azores in the first leg of a projected round-the-world flight, Commander Ramon Franco, famous Spanish aviator, hopped off from here at 7:30 a. m. today (3:30 a. m. Eastern daylight time), in a huge Dornier-Superwal hydroplane, the Numancia.

Franco was accompanied by Capt. Ruiz de Alda and Capt. Gallarza, of the Spanish Royal Flying Force, and by a civilian mechanic, Pablo Rada.

Radiograms received throughout the morning said the Numancia was proceeding without incident. The plane was in touch with stations in the Azores and Lisbon, the location being indicated through the radio-goniometer.

The start of the flight today followed months of intensive preparation. The hydroplane was assembled here by German mechanics and then put through severe tests. It is fitted with four Napier engines of 500 horsepower each and is said to be capable of maintaining an average speed of 125 miles an hour under ordinary conditions.

ALL METAL PLANE

The Numancia has a wing-spread of 95 feet and is of all-metal construction. It weighs 13,000 pounds when empty and is capable of carrying a load of 8,000 pounds. Its fuel capacity exceeds 2,000 gallons, giving it a cruising radius of about 2,500 miles.

According to tentative plans announced before the start of the flight, Franco intends to fly to Halifax after reaching the Azores. From Halifax, he will fly down the Atlantic Coast to Havana, stopping at New York on the way down.

From Havana, he will fly to Mexico City, then up the Pacific Coast to Alaska, across the Bering Sea, down the coast of Siberia and Manchuria to Japan, thence to the Phillipines, Burma, India and Persia in turn and across Europe back to Spain. Suitable stops will be made en route.

Two years ago Franco successfully spanned the South Atlantic from Europe to South America for the first time. Ruiz de Alda and Rada accompanied him on that flight also. Gallarza won fame as an aviator in 1926 when he flew from Spain to Manila.

4 Millions For G.O.P. Chest

WASHINGTON, Aug. 1.—The Republicans will spend approximately $4,000,000 in the Hoover presidential campaign this year.

This figure was estimated today by Hubert Work, national chairman, after a conference with J. R. Nutt, Cleveland, national treasurer; Jeremiah Millbank, New York, eastern treasurer; Representative Franklin Fort, New Jersey, national secretary, and H. L. Gutterson, executive secretary.

The Democrats have estimated their expenditures at between $3,000,000 and $3,500,000. These sums would result in the most expensive campaign in history.

SEE BOOST FOR KLINE IN POLICE SHAKEUP

The sweeping changes in the police department, announced yesterday by Dire... of Public Safety James ... Clark, were approved by Co...missioner Joseph G. Armstrong, Republican county chairman, before being made public.

This report was circulated ... political circles today, leaving th... impression that Armstrong is ready to support Mayor Charles H. Kline for another term, in spite of the active campaign that has been waged for months for Councilman James F. Malone.

The only reason given by Clark for the demotion of Inspector John P. Clancey, three police captains and four lieutenants, was "for the good of the service," the conventional explanation of changes in that bureau. That explanation covers everything, even politics.

SEE MOVE FOR KLINE

It is understood that the changes announced yesterday are the start of a sweeping reorganization of the police bureau, not only "for the good of the service," but also to aid Mayor Kline, should he choose to run for another term. Unless he changes his mind, the Mayor will choose to run, and, according to reports, has notified his friends and political associates, including Armstrong, of his intentions.

The one man whose hand was revealed in the changes announced so far, is State Senator James ... Coyne, chairman of the Republican City Committee. It was the influence of Coyne that caused the promotion of James N. Hoey to succeed Clancey, and the boost in the ranks of Lieut. Nuncie Marin...

Other police officers demoted included Captains John Hogan, Dan C. Ambrose and Alfred W. Bassett, and Lieutenants W. J. Burke, J. J. Callan, Frank McFarland and James J. Rogan. Their reduction paved the way for the promotion of Lieutenants Harry J. Mellon, Nuncie C. Marino and Dennis F. Hennessy to captaincies, and the rise to lieutenancy of Patrolmen William Fullerton, Robert W. Buel, Frank J. McNichol, Edmond M. Fallon and Thomas F. Gross.

STOCK FAKERS TRICK UNWARY BY MAIL

HARRISBURG, Aug. 1.—(AP.)—Security frauds in Pennsylvania in the last year have been accomplished largely through tipster ets, the Pennsylvania securities commissioners said yesterday in their annual report to the secretary of banking.

There has been a continuous de ne in the number of applications for fraudulent promotions, the issioners said, and the meth selling "blue sky" to the pub as been changed in a large nt to the operation of the tipssheets.

"Tipster sheets are mailed from utside the state to citizens of ennsylvania, in most cases ther from New York City, Bos , or some city in New Jersey," he report said. "These sheets ighly recommend some one particular issue that they desire to sell the unwary investor. In order to hide the real purpose, they include information about several other well known securities. The tips given in these sheets are followed up over the telephone and by telegraph from outside the state. Of course, these solicitations could not legally be made in person within the state. Such an attempt would be speedily detected and the parties prosecuted.

"Until New York and New Jer y pass some effective form of gislation, undoubtedly this posi n will continue, unless there is me Federal statute passed."

TEXTILE ZONE QUIET; RIOTERS SENTENCED

NEW BEDFORD, Mass., Aug. 1.—(AP.)—With practically all of the leaders of the radical labor groups lodged at the House of Correction today while court officials strove to clarify their status, the textile situation was quiet.

Not only were the ring leaders detained but so were practically all of their 250 companions taken in a series of raids on picket lines Monday night when the use of the National Guard became necessary to quell the resultant disturbance.

There were indications that the wholesale commitments to jail had temporarily, at least, subdued the spirits of some of the less hardy spirited. In contrast to the situation Monday night, there was but a single arrest last night. A woman who refused to move at the Whitman Mill was taken into custody.

COURT WORKS LATE

Judge Frank A. Milliken in the Third District Court set a new record for disposal of cases by continuing the session into the night. Prisoners were arraigned in batches. Reading of complaints was waived in most cases and the defendants convicted of rioting after entering pleas of not guilty.

Ten who were classified as leaders were given six-month sentences in the house of correction while the others got two months. The leaders appealed and were held in $1,500 while bail for the others was set at $500. Of the 250 sentenced only 22 were bailed.

They were members of the New Bedford Textile Council, the regular labor body and the only group recognized by the manufacturers.

The court record became so confused that many of those arraigned yesterday on charges of participating in the previous night's rioting had prior cases against them postponed until Thursday.

Picketing by small lines, composed principally of women and children, was carried on yesterday before the Whitman and Acushnet mills. Police made no effort to disperse them.

ance of actual performances, h the factor of safety always mind.

"It is true that by August 5 0 of our 2,900 trainmen will be aced on the extra list. The esent depression in business ditions—reflected in railways es—makes imperative not improvements but economies. has been the experience of y businesses under similar ditions."

xplaining the necessity for insing the speed of the cars, rald declared that for years ngestion had slowed them down, t that public and company improvements have in some measure eved this.

NDITIONS IMPROVED

"At one time," he said, "the street car was the fastest moving vehicle on the street. Now it is the slowest except for the horse-drawn vehicle.

"The car riders of Pittsburgh have provided, through the railways company, more than $1,500,000 for improved power facilities, $4,500,000 for reconstructing tracks and over $5,000,000 for new cars—all since 1924—simply to improve operations and furnish a service adequate with the demands of the car riders."

He expressed his regret at the necessity for adjusting "operations and the number of employes to the seasonal traffic conditions and to decreased earnings," and added:

"Additional adjustments will be necessary if we are to discharge our duty to the city and other municipalities. In the event of improved earnings, service will be improved accordingly."

Moonshine Sales In Candy Shop Boost Fines

"I quit the tailoring business to open a confectionery shop," testified Samuel Korda, of 2106 Forbes street, in Morals Court today, when he and his wife, Elizabeth were arraigned charged with disorderly conduct following a raid last night.

"Sell any moonshine?" queried Magistrate A. D. Brandon.

"A little," replied Korda.

"That changes the charge to keeping a disorderly house and I fine you each $50," snapped Brandon.

decides that he wants to come back, as he very well might after he saw the title had fallen into Dempsey's hands again. Our John could hardly run out on that one, even if he wanted to from a personal standpoint. It would make him look too bad, for one thing, and it would lose him too much money, for another.

Imagine the awful laceration the turnstiles would take if and when they hold a heavyweight championship fight between the man who regained the title, a feat never before achieved, and the man who never lost it.

The majority of experts wouldn't give Dempsey a white man's chance of winning, but that would make no difference to John Bannanas and his brother-in-law. They want to see in there with Tunney a man who has a chance to level him with one punch, and, besides, there are a lot of souls on this earth who have never got over the idea that Dempsey really is the champion by virtue of the famous long count in the seventh round at Chicago.

Opinion today was pretty equally divided as to whether Tunney's retirement is permanent or really temporary. Those close to the man, however, seem cemented in their notion that, having relinquished the possession he prized most, Tunney is through for all time. This may be, for he is a singular individual if ever there was one, and he has the strength of character to stick with a thing even when he believes it to be against his impulses and desires. If I am drawing a picture of a hard-headed man sitting down to give himself a terrible beating on any issue that might arise, I am desoluated but not discouraged. In fact, I regard that picture as an excellent likeness.

WITH RESERVATIONS

The ensuing 12 months will tell the story of Tunney's retirement. As read, it must be accepted at face value but not without reservations. One of these would take in the possibility of a standout heavyweight being uncovered in the next year—Dempsey, for example, or the man who arises to a point of great disorder by knocking Dempsey out.

For Tunney, even in retirement, is the type of man who will want to be recognized as the greatest there is. If another arises whose fame and ability disputes the point, then every tendency of the retired champion will be tugging at him to go out and reaffirm the supremacy he now enjoys.

But the development in question must arise within the period of time in which Tunney believes his speed will stay with him even though he be inactive. For, as I have said before, Tunney may come back to score an expected victory; never to accept an expected defeat. Too much does he enjoy the distinction of being the only heavyweight champion, who retired undefeated, to spoil the illusion.

Because there were countless persons unable to be reached by the voting machines, this new means of securing the desired information is expected to tap many new fields of expression and give a more general forecast of the sentiment of the voting public.

Undoubtedly the coming election promises to be the most interesting presidential contest in many a year, and it has been proved in the straw vote campaign during the past weeks that a lively and general interest is maintained by practically every person.

Yesterday's machine vote was particularly heavy, demonstrating the popularity of this mode of casting a ballot. Smith was credited with 609 votes to Hoover's 344, both Braddock and McKeesport favoring the Democratic candidate by slightly more than two-to-one.

DRYING UP BROADWAY COST U. S. $75,000

NEW YORK, Aug. 1.—(AP.)—Prohibition authorities estimated today that it cost them between $65,000 and $75,000 to obtain evidence which they believe will dry up Broadway.

Four undercover agents from Washington, whom Broadway has nicknamed "The Four Horsemen," made the rounds of the night resorts, establishing contact through the liberal spending of money.

Coming to New York in February these four men soon became well known in the city's night life as liberal spenders, making no complaint at paying $22 a bottle for Moselle, $42 for champagne, $2.25 for cocktails, $1.75 for imported and $1.50 for domestic ginger ale.

They were welcomed at all the night clubs. Then they disappeared. Broadway wondered where they had gone, but not for long. On the night Gov. Smith was nominated for the presidency at Houston Federal raiding parties descended on Broadway and served warrants on the late hosts and hostesses of "The Four Horsemen."

Later came the padlocking of the bars in six of the most popular clubs and yesterday indictments were returned against eight clubs and 31 individuals raising the total indictments of the week to 26 night clubs and 139 individuals. One of the bars padlocked was Texas Guinan's Salon Royale.

The eight latest victims of the indictments were the Marguery Rendezvous, J. T. Martin's restaurant, Chez Florence, of which Miss Guinan's brother, Tommy, was in charge; Little Club, Owl Club, Footlight Club, U. S. I. Restaurant and Lauretta McDermott Club.

The drive to dry up Broadway brings to light a contest among three women—Texas Guinan and Helen Morgan, two of the street's brightest lights, and Mrs. Mabel Walker Willebrandt, militant Assistant United States Attorney General in charge of prohibition enforcement.

It was Mrs. Willebrandt who directed "The Four Horsemen" in their devastating ride through the white light district and Texas and Helen two of those who unwittingly entertained them.

GETS WITHHELD ALCOHOL ORDER

Federal Judge R. M. Gibson yesterday signed a decree directing Prohibition Administrator John D. Pennington to issue a permit to R. L. Hefferman, trading as the Dovola Company, Pittsburgh, to withdraw 3,000 gallons of denatured alcohol a month, for manufacturing purposes. Hefferman appealed to the court when the administrator denied him a permit to withdraw 5,000 gallons of alcohol a month to be used in manufacturing perfumes, hair tonics and toilet articles.

The administrator in his absolute refusal to grant the permit, declared the amount sought was shown to be greater than required by the company and the formulas of the denatured alcohol sought were such as could be redistilled and converted into illegal channels.

ORDER BRIDGE BE RAISED AT KITTANNING

KITTANNING, Pa., Aug. 1.—The War Department's campaign to clear the Allegheny River of all obstructions to navigation, has reached Kittanning.

Secretary of War Dwight W. Davis, through the U. S. Engineers' office in Pittsburgh, has ordered the commissioners of Armstrong county to alter and elevate the bridge spanning the river at this place within two years, to provide sufficient clearance for steamer traffic.

The order requires that two spans on the east side of the stream be removed and that the channel span be raised to a height of 47 feet above ordinary pool level.

The action follows a long controversy between county officials and the U. S. Engineers, and is in line with the bridge-raising orders affecting Pittsburgh.

AUTOPSY SHOWS SKULL BROKEN

Not until an autopsy was performed was it discovered that Harry H. McCambree, 33, a plumber, of 3333 Fifth avenue, died of a fractured skull, according to the coroner's report. He fell last Friday a Forbes street and Murray avenue and was taken by friends to S Francis Hospital, apparently suffering from alcoholism. Arrested when West End police, in a rowboat, broke a midnight bathing party near Brunots Island, two girls their boy friends were discharged by Magistrate A. D. Bran in Morals Court today.

Patrolman Charles Bloomer, of the West End station, testified he had arrested the four members of the swimming party for the "protection of the girls," as he feared harm might befall them at such an hour. They were not causing a disturbance, he said.

"We have to work until midnight, and that's the only time we have for swimming," chorused Pauline Hughes, 26, of Saginaw street, and Helen Sakach, 18, West Carson street, who were ushered into court attired in bathing suits, concealed under long cloaks. T said they were employed at Fort Pitt Hotel.

The girls, with their compani William Dugan, 21, of 302 street, and Michael Burke, 21 306 Hunt street, spent the morning hours in the matron's partment at the South Side Station, following their arr charged with disorderly conduct

Seize Nun In Obregon Murder

MEXICO CITY, Aug. 1.—(AP.)—A nun, Concepcion Acebedo de la Lata, has been named by Jose de Leon Toral, youthful art student, as having "indirectly influenced" him in the assassination of President-elect Alvaro Obregon.

Toral named the nun when questioned by the judge in the preliminary court of first instance in San Angel, where he was formally charged with the murder.

Without a collar and his scraggly black beard showing more than a week's growth, Toral seemed utterly indifferent under the questioning. He was calm and composed. His voice was low but he spoke clearly and without a tremor. He occasionally clenched his fists.

"Did you consider well everything involved when you were going to kill Obregon?" Judge Mendosa asked.

"Yes," Toral replied, "I thought of the consequences but not of all."

"Who influenced you to commit the deed?"

"Directly—nobody."

"Who indirectly?"

"Mother Conchita."

"Who is Mother Conchita?"

"The mother Superior Concepcion Acebedo, who figures in the investigation."

"How did she intervene?"

"In conversation. She told me the religious persecution was being prolonged and the remedy could be obtained only with the death of Obregon, President Calles and Perez.'" (Perez is patriarch of the so-called Mexican schismatic Catholic Church, which does not recognize the pope at Rome.)

The nun who is being held in police headquarters in Mexico City, denied to newspapermen that she had fostered in the mind of Toral a belief that he could solve the religious problems by his crime.

JAILED FOR BATHING

"DISORDERLY CONDUCT"

West End policemen in a rowboat on the Ohio, near Brunot's Island, early, very early, this morning, came upon Helen Sakach, 18, West Carson street, and Pauline Hughes (right), 26, Saginaw street, swimming with two young men. So the girls, clad in bathing suits, spent the night in jail—the matron's department, Central Police Station—charged with disorderly conduct. Magistrate A. D. Brandon, Morals Court, could see nothing disorderly, so he discharged them when they were arraigned, still in bathing suits, this morning. They "work until midnight and can't swim any other time," they said.

Italy Hails Nobile as Hero

ROME, Aug. 1.—(AP.)—With the cheers of their countrymen ringing in their ears, Gen. Umberto Nobile and five other survivors of the Italia were in Italy today while the nation rejoiced over their having been snatched from death in the Arctic.

Women wept and threw flowers in the path of the survivors when they reached Rome in the special car which had brought them from Narvik, Norway. Two of the rescued men did not return to Italy, Capt. Alberto Mariano being left behind in a hospital in Narvik, recovering from the amputation of his foot, and Prof. F. Behounek returning to his native Czechoslovakia.

Gen. Nobile and his companions were received almost with royal honors by Prince Ludovico Pentenziani, governor of Rome, and other high officials in the room of the railway station reserved for the king and his family.

CROWD BREAKS LINES

When they came out on the street the crowd went wild and broke through the lines of police and carabineers. Scores of women embraced the explorers. The automobiles bearing them were only able to proceed at the speed of a slow walk toward the men's homes.

Gen. Nobile appeared tired, and his face showed plainly the hardships he had undergone. His companions, with the exception of Radio Operator Giuseppi Biagi, looked the worse for their experiences. Biagi was in gay good humor and seemed ready for another hazardous trip to the North.

Lieut. Alfredo Viclieri, navigator, who was in command of the red tent encampment on the ice after Nobile was rescued, was the center of a demonstration all his own. He left the train soon after passing the frontier and went to his home in the little town of Borghetto, Santo Spiryto. En route he had to stop at Milan, where the Italia started its fatal voyage. The prefect of Milan and an enormous crowd welcomed him at the station. Women and girls covered him with flowers.

PORT VUE WOMAN, 82, HURT BY FALL, DIES

Maria Dunn, 82, of 1909 Meyer avenue, Port Vue, died last night in the McKeesport Hospital of a fractured hip suffered in a fall July 8. The aged woman was en route to church when she fell.

MOTORIST APPEALS FINE BY WOMAN

Alleging that the proceeding and conviction were illegal, Attorney Frank J. Zappala, representing the Pittsburgh Motor Club, appealed to the County Court a fine imposed last night by Mrs. Margaret M. Morgan, Sewickley justice of the peace.

The fine, $10 and costs, was imposed upon W. R. Eaton, Jr., of Fisk avenue, Avalon. He was charged with speeding on the Beaver road, Osborne borough, July 28. He was arrested by Motorcycle Patrolman C. R. Gardner, of Osborne.

WRONG CHARGE

When the hearing opened, Mrs. Morgan read to Eaton an information accusing him of reckless driving. Gardner interposed and said that his charge against Caton was speeding. Mrs. Morgan then said, "This case is dismissed," and handed the information to Gardner, asking him to destroy it.

She then went to a typewriter and, while answering a telephone call with the telephone receiver held aloft in one hand, typed with the other hand an information charging speeding. After asking Gardner to make a telephone call for her, she administered to him the oath on the substitute information. This information was read to Eaton and when asked whether his pleas was guilty or not guilty, he replied, "not guilty."

ONLY WITNESS

Gardner was the only witness and testified that Eaton exceeded the speed limit of 20 miles an hour in Osborne borough. Zappala asked him why, as an officer of Osborne, he had brought the charge in Sewickley. Mrs. Morgan then explained that officers of other boroughs frequently brought cases to her as offices of neighboring justices were closed at night. Zappala pointed out that Eaton was arrested in the morning.

Zappala argued that the charge of speeding had not been established in accordance with the state highway law. This requires that two officers stationed at both ends of a measured stretch of road at least one-eighth of a mile in length, must testify, and that a conviction for speeding cannot be found on the uncorroborated testimony of one officer, he said. Mrs. Morgan disputed this.

FIRE DRY AGENT AS DRUNK

The prohibition department trial board has recommended the dismissal of A. Nicklas, a dry agent, for intoxication.

According to testimony, Nicklas was found in a saloon at 1630 East Ohio street, July 26, at a time he was not on duty. He also failed to report to his superiors a violation of the prohibition law, it was charged.

ARRESTED AS DRUNK, DIES

Arrested as a drunk, Michael Blass, no home, died in the Allegheny General Hospital late yesterday, when he had been taken from Central Police Station. According to police records, Blass was arrested Monday night at Fifth and Wylie avenues. He showed signs of illness several hours later and was removed to the hospital. The cause of death is undetermined.

SMITH TO MEET PEEK

FARMER CHIEF AND GOVERNOR TO CONFER

By RAYMOND I. BORST.
International News Service.

SOUTHAMPTON, N. Y., Aug. 1.—Just before ending a five-day vacation here today, Gov. Al Smith announced that he would have breakfast with George N. Peek, farm leader, at the Biltmore Hotel, New York City, tomorrow morning.

"It is a fair assumption that you will talk about farm relief?" the Governor was asked.

"Well," he replied, smiling, "I don't think the question of golf will be discussed."

Peek, who hails from Moline, Ill., is expected to give the Governor a vivid word picture of the needs of the farmers of the Middle West.

Several weeks ago the Governor wired William H. Settle, Indiana farm leader, that if he was elected President he would call a conference of farm leaders immediately after the election to work out a concrete plan for farm relief for submission to Congress at its opening session.

The Governor motored to New York this afternoon, where he is expected to have several conferences with John J. Raskob, chairman of the Democratic National Committee, before return to Albany on Sunday.

As soon as he returns to the Capitol, the Governor will dispose of state business that has piled up during his brief absence and then settle down to whip into final shape the address he will deliver on August 22, when he is to be formally notified of the presidential nomination. He hopes to complete work on his acceptance speech by the middle of the month so he will have an opportunity to get another brief vacation, possibly in the Adirondacks, before the notification.

CITY TO TEST WELLS, SPRINGS

TYPHOID INCREASE LAID TO HEAVY RAIN DRAINAGE

Owing to the unusually heavy and frequent rains this summer, possibly causing contamination of the various wells and springs throughout the city and increasing the typhoid fever cases above normal, Dr. R. G. Burns, director of the Department of Public Health, today directed that an immediate survey be made of all sources of drinking water supply other than the city water.

This survey will include samples of water taken from all these sources and brought into the city laboratory for testing. The ones which are found to be contaminated will be immediately shut off from further use. The Department of Health, through the use of the sanitary inspectors and the sample collectors of the Bureau of Infectious Diseases, will endeavor to get a complete census of the springs and wells now in use throughout the city.

Director Burns asked that any information leading to the location of the various wells and springs in the city that have been subject to a flow of surface drainage be telephoned to the Department of Health at once.

TWENTY-SEVENTH WARD TO PICNIC TOMORROW

The Twenty-seventh Ward Board of Trade will hold its fifth annual outing tomorrow in West View Park. A program of athletic events will be opened with a marathon race from the Twenty-seventh Ward Athletic Club, California avenue, to the park.

SET BLAME IN FATAL BLAST AT JOHNSTOWN

JOHNSTOWN, Pa., Aug. 1.—Two corporations and the city were declared negligent by a coroner's jury investigating the deaths of four men, killed in an explosion in a Main street sewer last week.

The jury found there had been negligence on the part of the D. R. Davis Construction Company in failing to take proper precautions for the safety of its employes after the company had knowledge of the presence of gasoline in the soil.

The Universal Oil Company was found to have been negligent in permitting gasoline to escape from its service station and seep into the ground, and city officials were held negligent by reason that they had failed to take proper steps after learning of the danger.

Leads Outing

T. F. ASHFORD, JR.

Allegheny County Orphans' Association of Patriotic Americans, of which Thomas F. Ashford, Jr., is president, will picnic Saturday at Rock Springs, W. Va. The picnickers will be taken there on the steamer Washington, which will leave the local wharf at 8 a. m.

STORE WORKERS DISCUSS GOOD TIME AT OUTING

Palace Credit employes are still discussing the success of their outing held at Wildwood last Sunday, when workers in all departments participated in the outdoor gathering. Athletic events and a baseball game between the various departments provided an enjoyable program. Novelty races were held for the boys and girls, and old and young shared in the day's recreation. At the close of the frolic a luncheon was served under the trees.

PHONE LINES MERGE AT PUNXSUTAWNEY

Weather Conditions.

The Atlantic coast high shifted into the Southwest, and the barometer fell rapidly over the Ohio Valley states and eastward over the Middle and North Atlantic coast. As a result of this fall in pressure cloudy weather spread eastward and showers and thunderstorms occurred nearly everywhere from Tennessee northward to Canada. Thunderstorms occurred also over the Dakotas and the adjacent border states, and at scattered places over the Rocky Mountain states.

There was a slight rise in temperature over the Ohio Valley states and the lake region.

River Conditions.

While generous rains fell over most of the watersheds there was little change in the rivers. Stage at Pittsburgh is 11.0 feet; Dam No. 2, 8.7 feet; Dam No. 6, 8.5 feet; all the dams are up. The rivers will remain practically stationary or rise slightly.

UNDERPASSING ADDS TO INTERSECTION CAPACITY

ANNIVERSARY BUICKS HOLD INTEREST

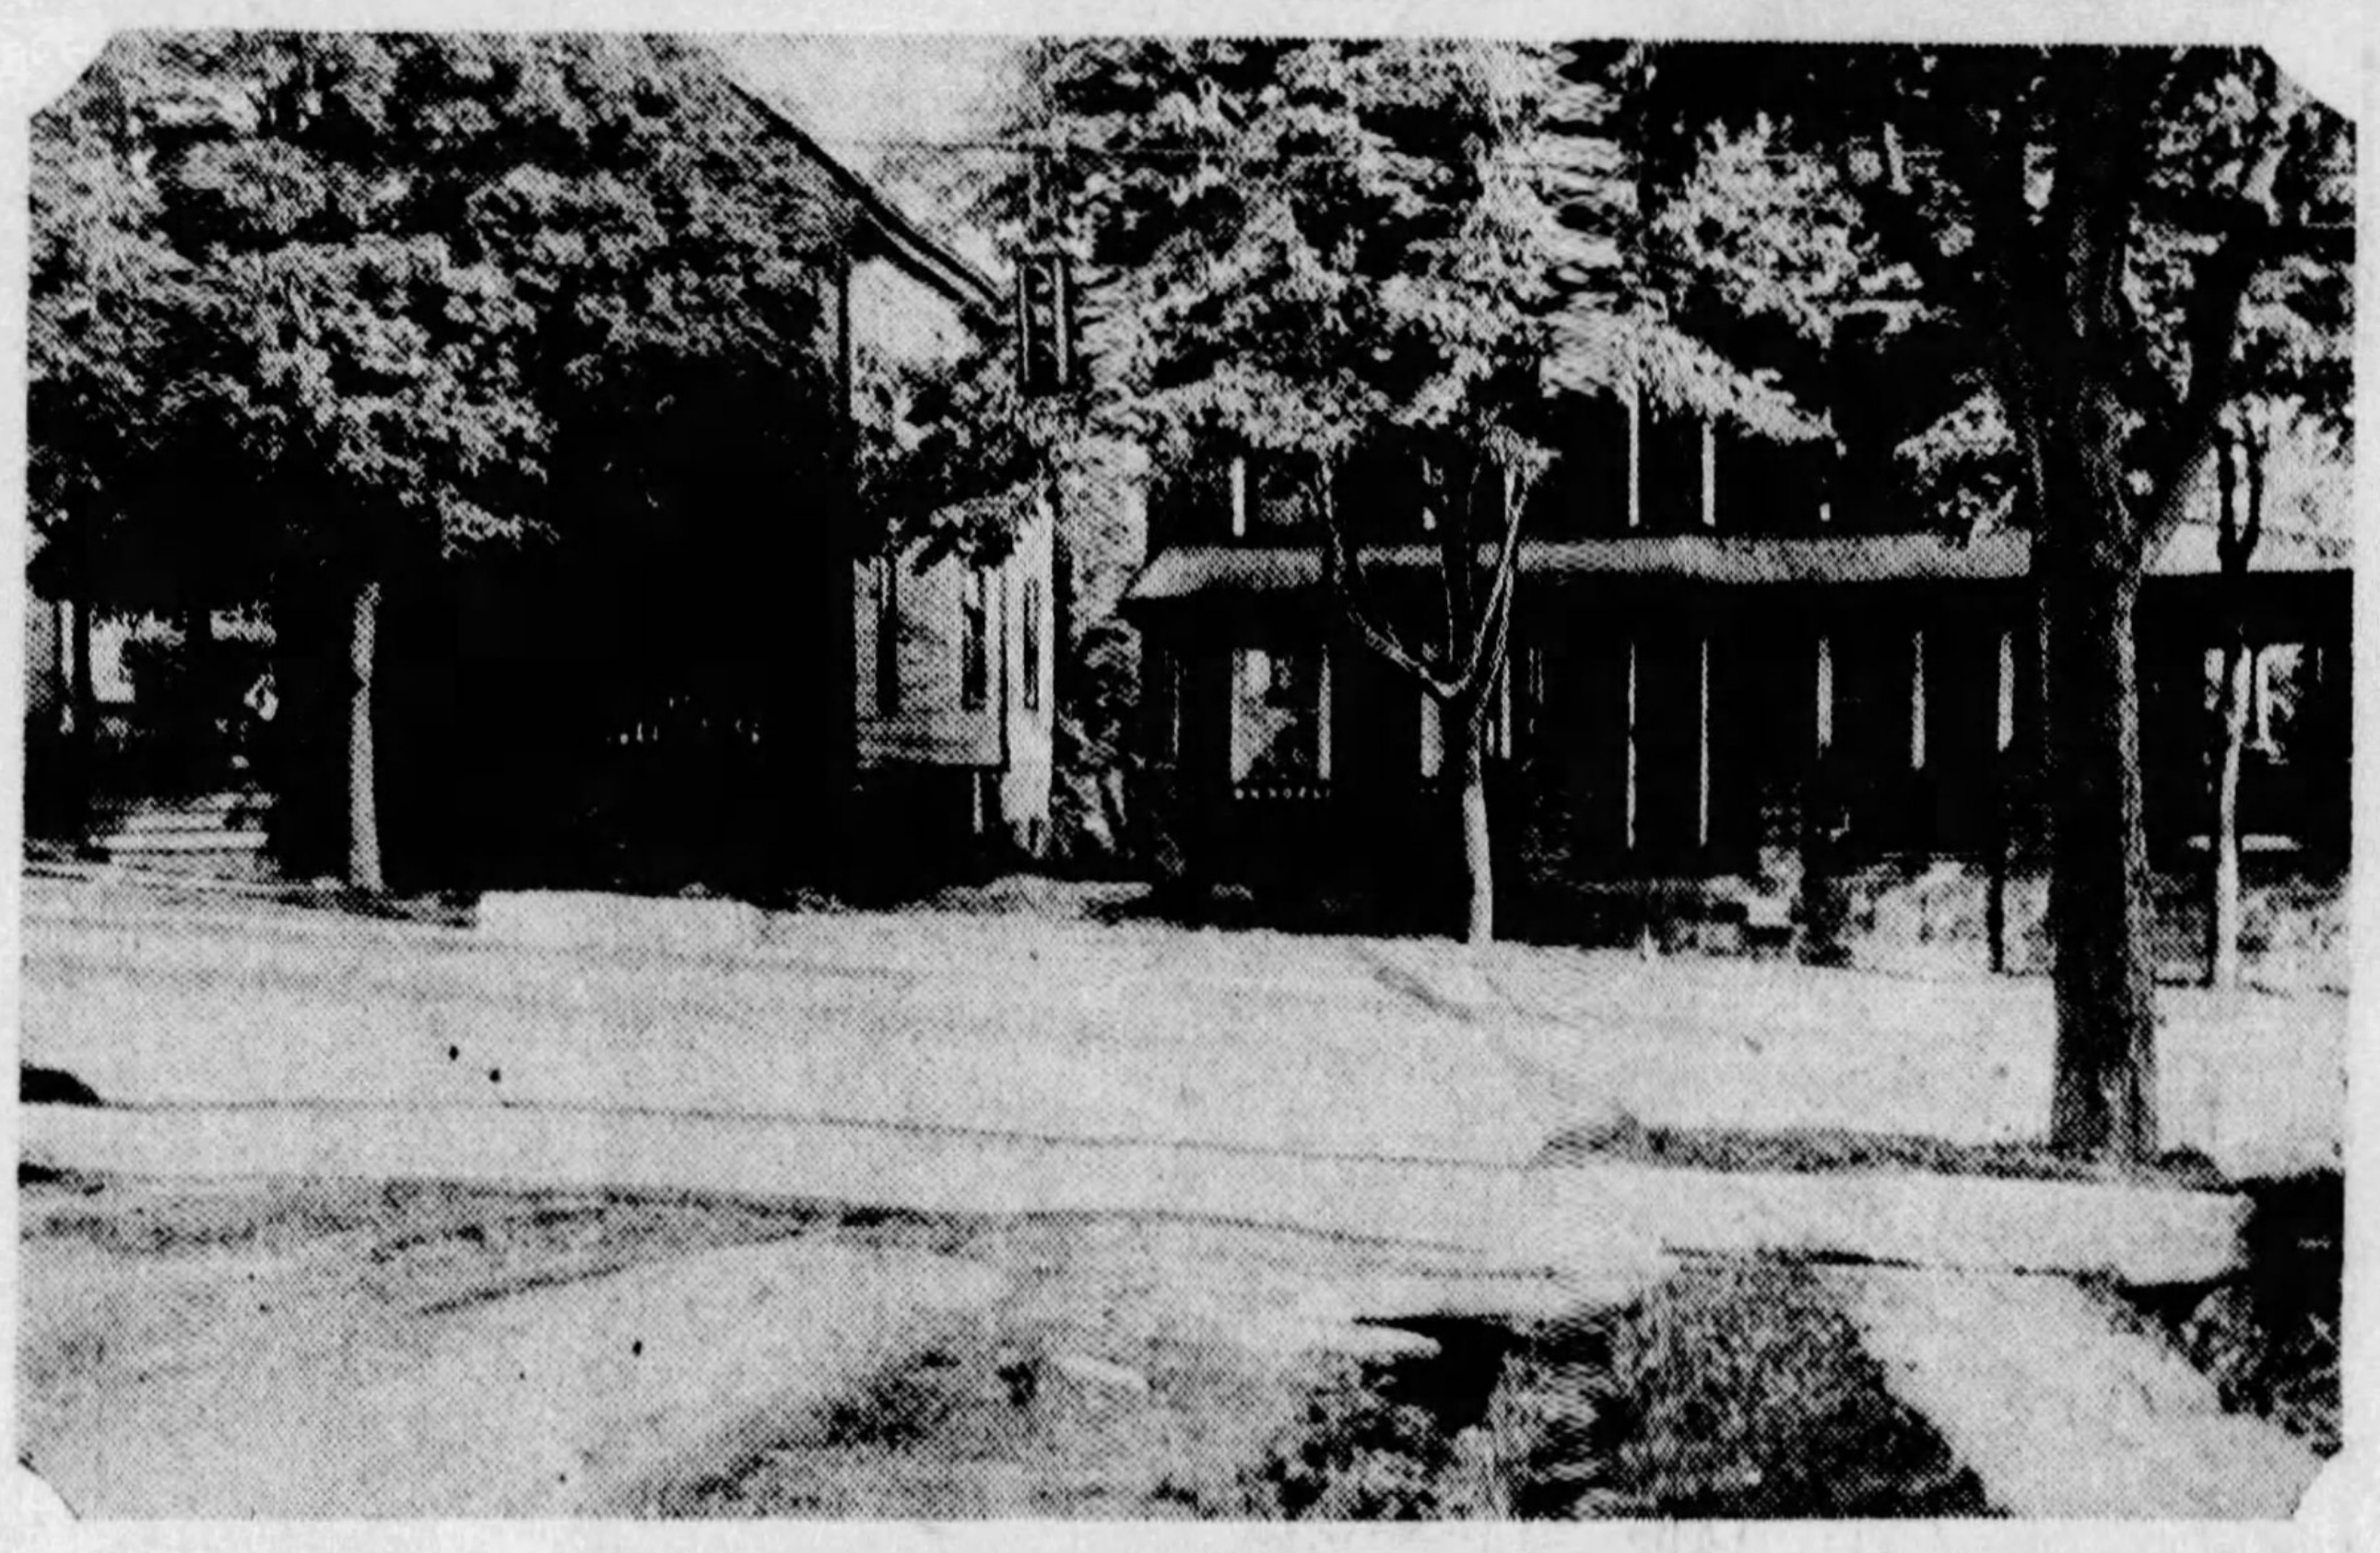
With the new Silver Anniversary Buick creations five days old, thousands of motor car enthusiasts are still thronging the various exhibits of these cars, at the Buick Motor Car Company on Baum boulevard and in the show rooms of its associated dealers.

A striking array of special equipment, designed to harmonize with the car itself, is being offered in connection with the Silver Anniversary cars. This equipment, coupled with the wide range of color combinations possible in the new masterpiece bodies by Fisher, opens almost limitless possibilities for those desirous of working out special treatments.

Of all the new equipment, the special demountable wood and wire wheels probably represent the most radical departure from conventional design. They are interchangeable. The new bumpers are highly attractive. A double reverse curve has been worked out for the front bumper, and the lines of the rear fender-guards harmonize. Full-width bumper protection may be had for the rear of the car, for use with trunk rack and trunk.

Other special equipment includes the new exhaust heater with provision for two outlets, one in the front compartment and one in the rear, and a new and accurate timepiece, harmonizing with the other body hardware, to be mounted above the windshield.

TRAFFIC LIGHT BRINGS PROTESTS



DELAYS MOVEMENT OF AUTOS

This traffic light at New Alexandria is the cause of many complaints received by motor clubs or other automotive organizations from tourists and other travelers. The intersection being of the "T" variety and traffic light there is no need for an automatic "stop and go" signal, the complaints say.

CHICAGO ROAD MOVEMENT TRIPLED

By SAMUEL THOMSON.

How an underpass benefits traffic has been demonstrated by the one constructed at North avenue and the "Outer Drive," Chicago. As this underpass was opened to traffic August 10, 1927, it has had time to prove itself.

Before this grade separation was built, it was not unusual for traffic moving north in the evening to be brought to a stop two or three blocks south of the avenue. Traffic entering the park system or swinging out of the drive westward caused the delays.

It is estimated that the traffic capacity of this intersection has been increased 300 per cent and that the volume of traffic is increasing in proportion to the distance north the outer drive is extended.

The general plan of the underpass is that of a diamond shaped series of outer drives with a superimposed double-decked, right-angled main drive through the center. The heaviest traffic flow uses the upper main drive, while the second, or intersecting traffic, uses the lower roadway, passing under the heavy traffic. As planned for any important intersection there are only right-angled turns for all traffic no matter which direction traffic is going or which direction it may desire to turn. The underpass is not difficult to drive, for each turn follows in regular order and there is little opportunity for the driver to go wrong.

The heavy traffic north and south driveway at North avenue is 80 feet wide between curb lines. The lower drives are each 19 feet wide between curbs. The lower drive is flanked by sidewalks. Pedestrians are not allowed on the upper level.

This underpass is one of a series which the commissioners of Lincoln Park will build. Their ultimate program calls for a great strip of land running from North avenue to Devon avenue, landscaped into a beautiful park with golf courses, lagoons, bathing beaches, tennis courts and other recreational facilities. The high-speed drives and the traffic underpasses are the first step in a program to carry traffic safely and swiftly through the new area.

MARMON STAFF PICNICS

More than 450 Marmon dealers of this district and members of the staff of the Marmon Company of Pittsburgh, together with members of their families and friends, participated in the second annual outing of the Marmon Company Sunday at Oakford Park, near Jeannette.

The annual Marmon field meet was staged as part of the outing. The contests were featured by the brilliant victory of the sales force over the shop men in the baseball game, although the meet as a whole was won by the shop staff. H. H. Blumenthal, president of the Marmon Company, pitched for the sales force, while Max Baurle was the hurler for the shop team. Mr. Blumenthal, who is a noted athlete of this district, was given brilliant support by the sales infield, who starred in four double plays and many unusual catches. The score was 11 to 6.

In the tug-of-war following the ball game the sales force was pulled off their feet by the shopmen, who are now the proud possessors of the field meet trophy. Following the tug-of-war a program of running and jumping was staged. Swimming, music, a beauty contest and lunches also were the order of the day. The picnickers were transported in 40 automobiles and two motor coaches.

DODGE CREATES NEW SPORT

Addition of a sport touring car to the Victory Six line has been announced by Dodge Brothers, Inc., the body being leaf would brown trimmed in bettle green. Upholstery is tan shark grain leather. Standard equipment includes six wire wheels, the two spares being mounted in welled front fenders with trunk rack in rear.

Nickel plating of the windshield frame, head and cowl lamps, stanchions, molding, steering column, gear shift and hand brake levers, bumpers, spare tire carriers, door handles, hood hinge and latches and hub caps add unusual beauty to the car. The windshield is designed so it can be pushed over forward when the top is down.

500 NEW YORK CARS STOLEN DURING APRIL

A total of 535 automobiles valued at $282,114, were stolen in New York state during the month of April, 1928. The police of the various municipalities recovered 411 during the same period. The records for 1928 include 402 cars stolen in January, 413 in February and 504 in March.

115-MILE ROAD TO JOIN MAINE WITH DOMINION

Northern Maine will be connected with Canada by completion of the Campbellton and St. Leonard New Brunswick highway, 115 miles in length. This highway is being built with a view to encouraging tourist travel.

HUPMOBILE BUILDING NEW CENTURY MODELS

DETROIT, Aug 1.—Rumors concerning future activities of the Hupp Motor Car Corporation received official confirmation today with the first public announcement of its 1929 Century models. A complete new line of both the Century Six and Eight is now in regular production and will be displayed by H. F. Gleason Motors, Inc., Pittsburgh Hupmobile distributor, as soon as shipment is received.

DuBois Young, president and general manager of the Hupp Corporation, announces that a large number of refinements and improvements are incorporated in the new design.

"Hupp is taking an unusual step in offering its 1929 models while its present line of cars is still far from the peak of a demand which ever since last fall has been breaking all records of the company," said Mr. Young.

"In the eight months since the Century line was introduced, many of its distinctive features have been widely adopted by the industry and it is interesting to note that points stressed in recent announcements of new cars were featured in our 1928 product. Hupmobile has taken full advantage of the experience gained during the past eight months to improve our Century line still further and we are gratified to state today, as we did last October, our belief that Hupmobile is the best car of its class in the world."

ROOSEVELT WAS FIRST PRESIDENT-MOTORIST

William McKinley was the first President of the United States to ride in an automobile, according to the National Automobile Club. But McKinley took only one short ride, just for the "experience" of riding in what was in his time considered more or less of a freak means of locomotion. Theodore Roosevelt was the first president actually to drive a motor car.

Former Mortician to Direct "Buddy" Rogers in Second Picture Starring That Boy

By REGINA CREWE

(Copyright, 1928, by King Features Syndicate, Inc.)

HOLLYWOOD, July 31.

IT SEEMS as though Director Richard Wallace's recent New York journey wasn't entirely for the purpose of looking over Broadway. But whether the deal was closed here or there, the former undertaker, who has contributed some of the world's loudest laughs to movie comedies, has been signed by Paramount to direct ''Buddy'' Rogers' second starring vehicle. It is tentatively titled ''Just Twenty-One,''' and it gives all hands plenty of chance to do their stuff.

Wallace has the distinction of having directed one of the greatest money-making films ever produced. It is "McFadden's Flats," and, although he has made many somewhat more artistic photoplays, this one clinched his claim to box-office fame.

They're picking 'em by ruler and tape measure these days. One star's too tall, another's too fat, or the other way round. Anyway a couple of inches too great height lost Josephine Dunn the "Gold Braid" role with Ramon Novarro, and gave it to the more diminutive Anita Page. Both girls are "pets" at Metro, and every opporunity is being given them to demonstrate the screen ability the executives believe they possess.

Well, they did get Edmund Lowe after all. I never believed that Fox would lend him for the part. But he did. So now Eddie will be seen opposite Corinne Griffith in "Outcast," which is to have its talking sequences.

In a sequence of Al Jolson's picture, "The Singin' Fool," Al is reduced to the status of a bum by the faithlessness of his wife. Al was stalling around the lot between shots, and paused to lean against a pole in the shade. He removed his hat and was mopping his more or less fevered brow, when along came Darryl Zanuck, associate executive of Warner Brothers, and dropped a half dollar in Al's chapeau. Al kept the four-bits to add to his second million bucks. But he called Zanuck a big so-and-so. The funny part is Zanuck is a little feller.

Mrs. Finis Fox, whose marriage makes her a sister-in-law of Director Edwin Carewe, staged an elaborate farewell "shower" for Dolores Del Rio, who leaves very shortly for the grand European tour of which I have told you. It would be far simpler to say who wasn't present rather than who was. As I looked 'em over, it seemed to me that every star I'd ever seen or heard of was among the host gathered to wish Dolores "bon voyage." Perhaps Mary Pickford was the most famous guest.

Gloria's still looking for a man. Isn't that a fine state of affairs? There doesn't seem to be one in Hollywood to suit her, or rather, to suit the role of leading man in "The Swamp" and the requirements of Director Erich Von Stroheim. Why not give Marquis Hank the job? He's going into pictures anyway, and his presence would attract many an extra dollar to the box office. The girls would like to get a look at the man Gloria married. The starting date on the production is August 15. So they'd better hurry with the cast.

Henry King should incorporate himself. The director is becoming a big business in his own right. He has at least one actor under contract to him. And now he has signed Fred De Gresac, whose name belies her femininity, to a contract which binds the brilliant playwright solely to King's service. She has nearly 40 successful plays to her credit. She has adapted for the screen such stories as "La Boheme," "Camille," "Son of the Sheik" and "The Darling of the Gods." Her first for King will be an adaptation of the Rupert Huges yarn, "She Goes to War," which he will direct for United Artists release.

"What's in a name," you ask? Go ask Don Alvarado, whose real one is Joe Paige. Or Barry Norton, who used to be Alfredo De Biraben. Or Nancy Carroll, really Nancy Lahiff. Or Billie Dove, the gorgeous one, who was christened Lillian Bohny. Or Ricardo Cortez, whose pals call him "Rickey," and whose real name is Jack Krantz. Or Sue Carol, who was once Evelyn Leaderer. Or Al Jolson, whose name is Yoelsen. Perhaps they'll tell you that in pictures there's a great deal in a name. It must fit your screen personality.

Describes Crash of America Off French Coast in Pitch Darkness

WHAT HAS GONE BEFORE;

Commander Byrd first trained for a seafaring profession, but later became interested in aviation. He has described the dangers of pioneer flying and the adventures of the first aviators who crossed the Atlantic Ocean. During the war he established an air unit at Halifax, N. S. He advocated the creation of a Bureau of Aeronautics in the Navy Department. He described the start of the trans-Atlantic flight of the America.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY.

Companions Suffer Injuries.

CHAPTER XXXI.

WE HAD some navigation flares with us which ignite upon striking the water and give a light for a few minutes. We carried these to sight on at night, when over the ocean, to get the drift caused by the wind and to use in case of a forced landing.

I had thrown half of them overboard to rid us of the weight, but had saved enough for such an emergency as this.

We now dropped a number of flares as nearly in a line as we could, about 100 yards from the beach line. They all ignited, and although they made a light in a pool of blackness, we hoped we would be able to judge the distance of the plane above the water as we descended. Of course, if we could not judge it, we should go into the water at flying speed, which would smash everything badly, since water does not give much when hit hard.

Those hours in the black storm had not been pleasant. I felt myself entirely responsible for the lives of my shipmates.

Orders Obeyed

I don't believe they thought there was much chance of getting down safely, but still they faced gallantly, with steady courage, whatever fate lay ahead. In a few moments the story would be ended, but to the last they calmly obeyed orders.

The gasoline was running low, we must not wait for it to give out and be forced to land.

Balchen happened to be at the wheel. I gave the orders to land.

We were landing with the plane in control and the engines functioning perfectly. At that moment, in spite of our danger, I marveled at the three engines that for forty-two hours had made some 1,500 revolutions a minute without missing a beat.

I thought of the Wright Aeronautical Corporation, that made the engines, and of my friend, Charles Lawrance, who had designed them.

Bennett and I had often wondered what would happen to a great three-engine plane landing in the water. Everyone thought the plane would turn over. Some thought the fliers would get hurt. Others thought not. Anyhow we were about to find out. Only we had the added difficulty of landing at night.

As we neared the water we could not see it; only the flares ahead of us and beneath us.

The wheels touched, and though the landing gear is secured to the plane with a tremendous factor of safety, it was sheared off, along with the wheels, with hardly a jar of the plane, as though a great knife had cut it, thus demonstrating the tremendous resistance of water when hit by a rapidly moving object. No one had predicted that.

Crashes Into Water

It seemed just a second after that the crash came. I suppose I was dazed a little. I know I got a stiff blow over the heart that made it beat irregularly for many months afterward. I found myself in the water outside swimming around in pitchy dark and rain. I could hear Noville calling for me, but not another sound in the extraordinary stillness which contrasted so vividly with the roar of the great motors which had been pounding on our eardrums for 42 hours like toms-toms of Hades.

The plane instantly filled with water. Noville was getting out of the window. I yelled at him that I was unharmed and asked him how he was, but he did not answer—just kept on yelling for me. I was a little worried about him, but I knew that he could not have been badly hurt.

Hearing nothing from Balchen and Acosta and worried beyond measure about them, I swam to where they had been; the cockpit, of course, was under water. I yelled as loud as I could but got no answer.

I found Balchen slightly caught under water and trying to extricate himself. When he got clear I asked him how he felt. He didn't answer but asked me how I felt. He talked a blue streak but didn't talk to me. I couldn't figure it out exactly but concluded that he, too, was somewhat dazed.

Thinking that Acosta must have been caught under the water in the cockpit, we dived down, but he was not there. I yelled for him, but there was no answer.

A moment later he appeared, apparently from nowhere, swimming toward the wing, the leading edge of which was now down to the water. He must have been swimming around out there somewhere in the darkness all the time.

Companions Deafened

I asked Acosta the same question I had asked the others, but he too didn't answer—asked me how I felt. Bert also talked a blue streak but not to either one of us. In the course of his talking I found he had broken his collar-bone.

It was a weird sensation to have three shipmates there in the dark who would not talk to me or each other, but it was the most thankful moment of my life to find them still "kicking." The very worst thing we had anticipated had happened, and we had come through.

With grunts and groans we dragged ourselves upon the wing. The wing was down in the water by that time.

So it must have happened with all the land planes that landed in the ocean that summer.

Noville, still functioning perfectly, was carrying out his orders given before leaving the States, which were to rip open the emergency cabin in case of landing in the water and pump up the rubber boat. He was at his job, although he could hardly stand up and was falling every minute or two.

It had been with considerable difficulty that all hands got on top of the wing. I then found that the reason I could not get any answer from them was that the three engines roaring for 42 hours over

AUNT BEATS STEP-MOTHER IN COURT BATTLE FOR BOYS

An aunt, instead of their stepmother, is to be guardian for two boys, it was decided yesterday in Common Pleas court by Judge Elder W. Marshall after an all day hearing in the habeas corpus case of Robert Dunlap, Jr., against his sister-in-law, Mrs. Hettie Thompson Grieco.

Dunlap, who lives in Willock, Mifflin township, is terminal foreman for the Montour Railroad. His first wife died four years ago, leaving two boys, Robert, now 8, and William, 6. Dunlap married again in six months. A score of witnesses indicated that his brothers and sisters were not enthusiastic about his second marriage. They said the children had not fared well and that finally, about a year ago, Mrs. Grieco, who was Dunlap's first wife's sister, took the children to her home in Brookline boulevard "for a vacation" and refused to let them go back to their father and stepmother. The evidence as to the treatment accorded them by the stepmother was contradictory. The judge had a chat in private with the boys and then rendered his decision.

"Bringing Up Father"

Jiggs Is Coming to Town! AT ALHAMBRA THEATRE

Jiggs didn't want much from life . . . just a few pals, plenty of corned beef and cabbage, and a trip to Dinty's once in a while.

But Maggie had different ideas. She wanted swank, and plenty of it; high hats, counts with monocles, lifted eyebrows, ritzy conversation . . . anything, in short, that would help to make a real gentleman out of Jiggs.

It wasn't any use; Jiggs was born to be—well, just Jiggs, and he knew that corned beef and cabbage just don't go with monocles.

"BRINGING UP FATHER"
is a riot. And why not? It is adapted from George McManus' world-famous cartoon.

Use Rubber Boat

We were stiff and bruised, tired

rubber boat. As the wing was

Ve placed our most precious go, which included a piece of the

PATRICIA PITT'S SPRIGHTLY COMMENT ON PITTSBURGH'S SOCIAL HAPPENINGS

Daily Announcement of Prospective Buds Renews Hope of Revived Gayety This Fa

MANY poets for many centuries have sung of the renewal of life in the spring. April does bring a freshness, it is true, as if the sweetness of life were increasing with the rising of sap in the maples. But the fall is a time of the beginning of things, too. After the enervating heat of the summer, the coolness and brightness of early autumn bring new vividness to life, don't you think?

To the social season, at least, the fall brings a renewal of gayety. Fall and debuts have long been synonomous.

And on one of the fall days there will be a debut that will interest the society folks of the city—that of Jane Allderdice, daughter of the Taylor Allderdices of Wilkins avenue. Jane will be presented to her parents' friends at a buffet luncheon in her home on Thursday, November 1. Jane's debut will be of particular importance because of her family, long one of the most prominent in Pittsburgh, and because of the personal charm of the bud herself.

The Allderdices and their debutante daughter and younger daughter, Nancy, will spend August at Cape May.

THE Edwards family was quite victorious at the elections at the East Hampton street fair at East Hampton recently. Mrs. Ogden M. Edwards was voted the best grandmother at the popular society summer resort, and little Lela Harkness Cook and Harkness Edwards, Jr., the most beautiful children.

YOU remember, surely, when the Alexander J. Wurtses were married during the holidays? They have left the city, and now are at Canoe Point, Bar Harbor, Me., where they have been entertaining quite a number of their friends, we hear from time to time. The Gilbert H. Doanes, of Lincoln, Neb., are their guests just now.

Just yesterday we were talking, I remember, about the house party the Loyall A. Osbornes are giving at Stockbridge in the Berkshire Hills, and at which Augusta Leovy is a guest. Monday the Osbornes entertained their house guests and other friends at a dinner.

EVEN though most of the society folks are out of the city, those, and there are many of them, who are interested in philanthropies, continue to help. The Pittsburgh Association for the Improvement of the Poor, which conducts a Fresh Air Home for Children, and gives aid to needy mothers, is doing some of its most important work of the year just now because of the heat.

On the woman's auxiliary board is many a name well known in Pittsburgh. Really the list of trustees and board members sounds like a social register extract—such names as Mrs. William Thaw, Mrs. W. H. Nimick, Jr., Mrs. Wallace H. Rowe, Mrs. Thruston Wright, D. M. Clemson, Dr. O. M. Edwards, Jr., and W. A. Harbison.

ANNOUNCEMENT has been made of the marriage of Miss Esther H. Streng, sister of Meyer H. Streng, of the Terrace Court apartments, and Leo Finegold, son of Mrs. Edith Finegold Wapner, of Beechview, which was solemnized Sunday night at 6 o'clock.

THURSDAY, August 16, is the date chosen by Miss Marian Louise Zinn, daughter of Mrs. Ella M. Zinn, of Superior avenue, Emsworth, for her marriage to David James Hamilton, son of Mrs. Esther D. Hamilton of Indiana, Pa. The announcement was made at a bridge tea given Saturday by Mrs. Zinn for her daughter.

AMONG the Pittsburghers at Atlantic City are Mr. and Mrs. William E. Benswanger, who are stopping at the Hotel Chelsea.

MRS. FRANK R. DRAVO, of East drive, Sewickley, and Mrs. Ralph M. Dravo, of Beaver road, Edgeworth, gave a buffet luncheon yesterday in the Allegheny Country Club in honor of Mrs. Tom M. Girdler, of Academy avenue, Sewickley, who has just moved with her husband to the Valley from Pittsburgh. There were 40 guests.

THERE will be bridge luncheons on August 7 and 21 for women members of the Pittsburgh Country Club and their friends, and on every Thursday night during the month a special dinner has been planned, followed by dancing. Dinner dances will be held on Saturday nights during the month and buffet suppers on Sunday evenings.

STUDENT teachers of the University of Pittsburgh who are at the Schenley High School this summer will entertain their critic teachers at luncheon tomorrow at the Faculty Club. The guest will include Roland G. Devers, Fred W. Mack, Miss Olive Lorraine, Miss Louise R. Thompson, John B. Coyne, E. O. Morrison, V. C. Ververka, H. W. Graffius, E. W. Cober, M. A. ALTHOUGH it may be too hot for club meetings, it is not too warm for radio club programs. Mrs. Edward P. Schempp, chairman of the home safety committee of the department of education of the Congress of Clubs, co-operating with the home safety division of the Western Pennsylvania Safety Council, has arranged a series of home safety talks to be broadcast over KDKA.

These talks will be given every Tuesday morning at 11 o'clock throughout September. At the conclusion of these programs, 10 prizes will be given by the safety council for the 10 best 200-word articles submitted to the home safety division of the Western Pennsylvania Safety Council, Diamond Bank Building.

FOUR school directors will be on the committee of county schools of the Congress of Clubs department of education. Mrs. W. E. Watson Kenney, director of the Mount Lebanon schools; Mrs. Henry Dierker, of Alleppo township, Glenfield; Mrs. J. L. Cox, of the Crafton schools.

THE Women's Community Association of the Twenty-seventh Ward will present a song and layman's service on the lawn of the Brighton Road Presbyterian Church Sunday evening at 7 o'clock. The Rev. F. J. Cummings will make an address, and William Craybar, chorister of the Mount Lebanon Presbyterian Church, will lead congregational singing. Miss Marie Saul and Herbert Love will sing, accompanied by Mrs. Walter McFarland.

DIVORCED, SUES EX-WIFE FOR FOUR-YEAR-OLD SON

A fight to determine whether the father or mother, who have been divorced, shall have the custody of 4-year-old James E. Blaine, was begun in Common Pleas Court yesterday when the father, Paul E. Blaine, sued for the child on a writ of habeas corpus. The mother, Edith E. Blaine, has been keeping the child with her at her home in Oakmont since the divorce. A hearing will be held Friday.

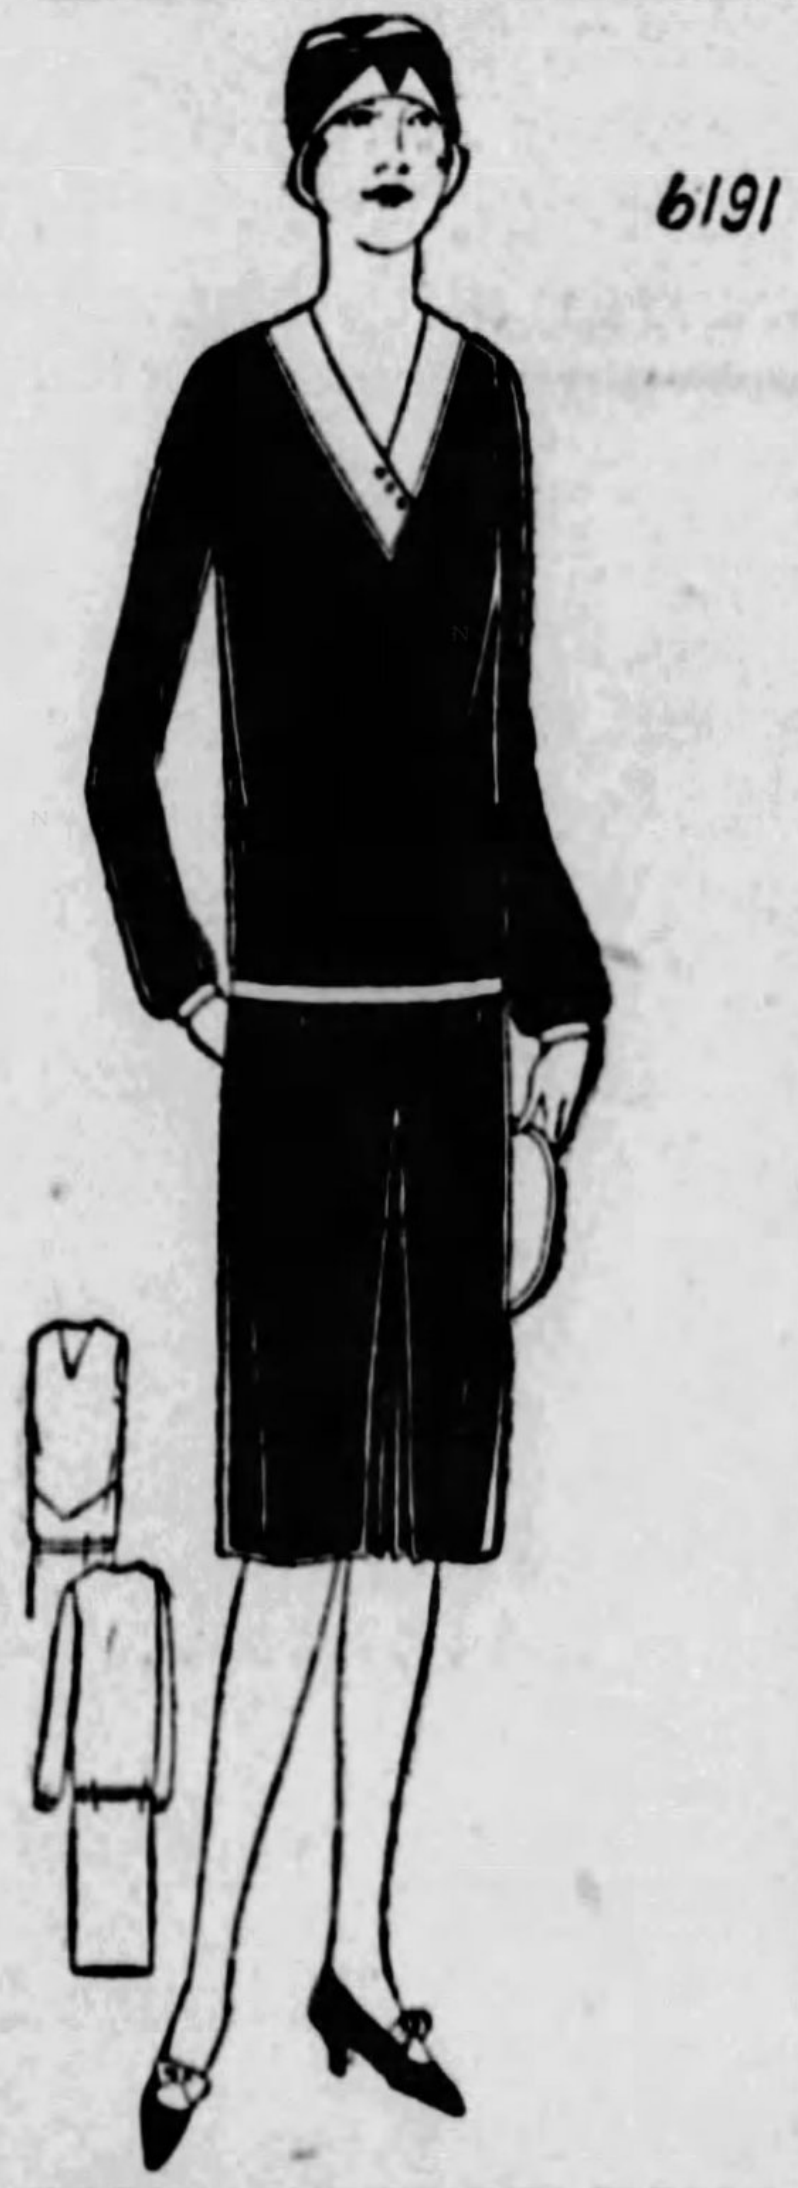
The Sun-Telegraph Fifteen Cent Pattern



A STYLISH FROCK FOR YOUTHFUL FIGURES.

A tailored frock of distinction is here developed in black satin, with facings of flesh-colored crepe. Moire or crepe would be equally pleasing. In crepe satin one could use the reverse side of the material for the facings.

This pattern is cut in six sizes: 34, 36, 38, 40, 42 and 44 inches bust measure. To make the design for a 38-inch size as shown in the large view, will require 3½ yards of 35-inch material, together with ½ yard of contrasting material for yoke facing and for facings on cuffs, sleeves and belt. If made as shown in the small view, without yoke facing and sleeves, 3 yards will be required. The width of the dress at the lower edge with plaits extended is 1⅝ yards.

COUPON.

This pattern will be sent on receipt of 15 cents (silver or 2c and 1c stamps). Make number, name, address, etc., plain. Send to Pattern Department. The Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph. Pittsburgh, Pa.

How To Be Beautiful

by Maria Jeritza

"UT your best foot forward," is sound advice. But better , keep both feet at their best put them forward by taking energetic walk every day of your life.

IA JERITZA

Be careful, I beg of you, about the shoes you wear for walking. It is natural to wish to wear pretty shoes. But many a young girl has handicaped herself in the beauty race by forcing her feet into pointed toes, short ps and spindle heels on all oc- ions until her arches weakened I broke, robbing her walk of all ntaneous, natural grace. Corns, ions and callouses do not ry the woman who wears es having moderate heels and ible arches on the street and walking. Also, her feet are supple and fit that she can don prettiest of evening slippers a few hours each evening—h heels and all—without harm- her arches or throwing her ly out of alignment. Reduce r heels gradually if you are ac- tomed to French heels, then r feet will become accustomed to the change and will grow supple and lovely with uncrowd pink toes.

A dainty woman takes as exquisite care of her feet as she does of her hands and complexion. Special predicure sets for trimming the nails can be bought, with nippers and rasps or files expressly designed to us on the toenails. You will find, however, that an ordinary emery-board is a real help in keeping the edges of the nails so smooth that they will not catch on fine silk stockings and tear them. The toenails should be cut straight across the top and filed smoothly.

Cold cream or hand lotion, your favorite facial tonic or eau de cologne rubbed into them, should keep your feet as smooth and pink as an infant's.

Here is an exercise which will strengthen your ankles and the arches both at the balls of the feet and the insteps if you practice it every day.

Stand in your bare feet and try to pick up with your toes, small round objects such as marbles or paper crinkled into the shape of children's marbles. Next, stand on a step or stool and bend your toes over the edge as far as you can. Practice each of these exercises five minutes.

HALF WIVES by Winifred Van Duzer

"Io" Makes Up Her Mind Never to Enter Into a Fifty-Fifty Marriage

WHAT HAS GONE BEFORE

Ione Farr, just out of high school, gets a position in a music publishing house in New York to which she commutes from her home up the Hudson. Her chum, Marie Karey, is engaged to Palmer Elliott, a young lawyer. Ione loses her heart to Alan Blake, who also works for the same firm. He sees the two girls at a hotel restaurant, takes them back to the office and Ione learns he is an accompanist. The two girls discuss marriage and Marie holds up Ione's sister Jenepher as a model. Jenepher is married, has a child and also holds a fine position in a smart New York shop.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

BUT they were different; they never made her feel as she felt today, all a-light, wraped in some mysterious charm. So gallant, this Lanny—gay, laughing fellow, throwing around him an atmosphere of happiness. Glad thing to know she would see him again; have him turn his head toward her in his genial, intimate way.

Jenepher found her smiling when she came up the steps.

"What is there to be pleased about in this world! Now wasn't it just my luck that Tim should have to work tonight and me getting home late?"

She lifted the baby, drew her hand down his cheeks, spoke with a soft note in her voice: "Has he been a trouble?"

"You know he never is, Jen. I should think—oh, don't you hate to leave him? Such a tiny thing, kind of forlorn—"

Jenepher was smartly tailored, rather silken in her slick grooming: she was taller than Ione, with the same slender grace, the cameo features. But her eyes were brown instead of blue, and she had a quick, nervous manner.

Now she shot a worried glance at her sister, pulled a fur scarf from her shoulders and wrapped it around her son.

"Of course I hate to leave him! What am I ever going to do? I was thinking, coming over here—listen: we could move into town. The time I'd save going back and forth! And now when I'm doing so much overtime . . . Easier to get the right care for him in the city."

Janey broke in, from the door. "you'd not do that, dear? Timmy, now—not a robust baby. The city air in his little lungs—you'd not take him away?"

"I only thought—"

"And Tim!" Janey rushed on in a sort of panic. "What would he do in a city flat with his work and his home up here? But you'll not think of it, really, dear?"

Jenepher shrugged, turned to go. "Tim knows whose job is important. Don't worry, mother, I'll manage all right. New maid coming tomorrow—"

She went slowly along the street, a trim figure bending backward with the weight of the boy.

Ione watched her out of sight, a clutch of sadness at her throat. She remembered that night, long ago, when her sister had waited for Tim so jubilantly, pulling his head down, telling him she was going to work for a little while.

"I do so want to be a good wife to you — wonderful, wonderful boy!" And now she said, "He knows whose job is important."

Luster all worn off; romance become a drab, commonplace thing.

Dreary—dreary.

It wouldn't happen to her. She'd never do what Jenepher had done and what Marie was going to do. Keep the family pot boiling by going outside her home to work.

"Oh, yes," she told herself. "All this heavy thinking and maybe I'll be an old maid after all. Ha-ha-ha"—

She stood a long time at her south window that night. A broad, white star hung almost in the tops of the arbor vitae; a birch stretched its pale branches in a ghostly way. So dear, this home folded in soft, black night. Take something to make her want to leave this, and Tom and Janey. Something beyond anything she could imagine now.

Yet a strange restlessness ran through her. She pressed on her desk light, spread out a book from a locked drawer.

Red covers, pages of soft drawing-paper; a fly leaf printed in capitals that wandered crazily. "Ione Farr—Her Wish Book."

Pages turning—pictures of dolls, a puppy, a sled in a snowstorm—things a very little girl might wish for, all in a crude, uncertain hand.

They grew more legible, the

$50,000 FOR WIDOW OF HINCHLIFFE, LOST FLIER

LONDON, Aug. 1.—(AP.)—A gift of $50,000 has been made by Lord Inchcape to provide for others who might suffer from the disaster in which his daughter, the Honorable Elsie Mackay, perished with Capt. Walter Hinchliffe. They were lost on an attempt to fly the Atlantic Ocean from east to west.

The money was put at the disposal of Winston Churchill, chancellor of the Exchequer. He was given absolute discretion as to its use and he has handed it to the public trustee "for administration accordingly."

While Capt. Hinchliffe's widow was not mentioned by name in the announcements, the sum is understood to have been given in response to her claims that there was moral obligations on Lord Inchcape to provide for her because the whole scheme of the flight came from Miss Mackay. She advanced these claims in a statement to the Daily Mail when Viscount and Lady Inchcape announced establishment of a trust fund of $2,500,000 in memory of their daughter. This fund is to accumulate for 50 years and then be applied to reduction of the national debt.

Mrs. Hinchliffe is about at the end of her resources and unless help comes will be obliged to leave her home, she said tonight.

"Of course," she added, "the money has not been given me and there may be other claimants. But I do not see how my rights can be ignored.

"I am very grateful to Lord Inchcape, especially as he has apparently given the money out of his own pocket."

GIRL 4, BOY 5, DIE BY AUTOS

Two children died in hospitals last night of injuries suffered earlier in the day when they were struck by automobiles.

Ruth Weywood, 4, of 507 Bessemer avenue, East Pittsburgh, died in the Braddock General Hospital. She was struck by an automobile driven, police say, by Walter Kline, of Hannahtown, at Bessemer avenue and Main street, East Pittsburgh. The driver was ordered to post bond at the coroner's office.

Hit by an automobile near the Baden Postoffice, Robert Spade, 5, of Detmer avenue, Baden, died in the Sewickley Valley Hospital.

INSPECTING HOME-TO-BE, FIANCE HURT IN FALL

WHEELING, W. Va., Aug. 1.—(AP.)—Frank Stahl, 26, was to have been married early in August, but the wedding may never take place. Looking over an apartment with his fiancee, Stahl leaned too far out a second story window and fell to the court below. He suffered a broken back and is in a critical condition.

MISLED BY MAN, BURNS HERSELF TO DEATH

NEW YORK, Aug. 1.—(AP.)—Miss Louisa Amelia de Hostos died at Harlem Hospital early today of burns suffered when she poured turpentine over her clothing and applied a lighted match.

Shortly after she had been taken from her upper West Side apartment to the hospital last night, Miss de Hostos, who was 38 years old, told police she wanted to take her life because a man had misled her. She declined to make any further explanation.

A doctor and his wife who occupied the apartment above that of Miss de Hostos investigated on hearing moans and found the woman in the bath tub.

Police found three letters in the woman's apartment. One addressed to the "chief of police, City of New York," and signed by Miss de Hotos, read:

"As there is no punishment for a man who takes a lady's name and disfigures it with all kinds of lies in a sneaky way, never giving any clue for his identification so that the victim has no means of defending herself, I decided that he must answer before God this taking of my life."

The others were addressed to a brother, Lieut. C. E. de Hostos, at Biarritz, France, and to her father, Adolfo de Hostos, of Santurce, Porto Rico.

Police found that the woman's trunks were packed and learned that she had planned to sail tomorrow for Porto Rico.

Mine Peace In Illinois Likely

CHICAGO, Aug. 1.—(AP.)—Representatives of Illinois miners and operators planned to take definite steps today toward a new agreement affecting working conditions and wages.

After the opening session yesterday, which was spent mostly in organizing the conference and a general discussion, both sides declared themselves ready for today's meeting. W. J. Jenkins, president of the Illinois Operators' Association, has been chosen chairman of the conference and Walter Nesbit, of Belleville, Ill., secretary of the Illinois Mine Workers, was named secretary.

Harry Fishwick, president of the miners, declared his organization is prepared to meet the operators frankly and sincerely in a determined effort to reach an agreement acceptable and profitable both to the miners and the operators. The miners already have discarded the Jacksonville wage agreement.

The Jacksonville scale was on a basis of $7.50 for day work, $1.04 a ton for hand work and 85 cents a ton for machine work. A counter proposal of $6 a day and 84 cents a ton was made by the operators and rejected April 1 by the miners.

Money Kindness Not Enough to Free Him

At least one dozen people in the world are kind, but . . .

Leonard Ginn, Negro hod-carrier, sent to jail two months ago for "from now on," still languishes in his unwelcome cell.

During the past week, almost a dozen men or women have stopped at the county jail and offered to pay the $10.93 that has separated Ginn from freedom since June 7. But it seems, according to Warden John McNeil, that E. C. Harper, tax collector of Coraopolis, must be paid the money in that borough, and that the kindly donors aren't kind enough to trek that far.

Harper sent Ginn to the big stone house when he was unable to pay his personal taxes of $10.93. Unless somebody goes to Coraopolis and pays, Leonard stays in.

Ex-Student Faces Jail

CLEVELAND, O., Aug. 1.—(AP.)—William Malloy, New Castle, Pa., who said he was a former University of Pennsylvania student, surrendered to police today saying he was wanted in Youngstown for passing worthless checks.

Malloy said he became discouraged with life after a blighted love affair at college. He said he arrived at Youngstown several days ago virtually penniless after tramping about the country, and after cashing a check for $36.50 at Youngstown he went to Milwaukee but became conscious-stricken and decided to return and tell his story. He said his money ran out when he arrived here and that he decided to tell police here his story and await for Youngstown authorities.

LITTLE JAPANESE BRIDE HERE LIKES OUR GIRLS

By ALMA SIOUX SCARBERRY.

Little "Yum-Yum," of the old and loved opera "Mikado," came to life right before Pittsburgh's eyes yesterday. Anyhow that's how it seemed when tiny, startling beautiful Mrs. Gen Watanabe, in native costume, came to town.

The little Japanese, 24 year old and 4 feet 10 inches tall, is a bride. She was married June 2 in Osaka, Japan, before a battery of more than 600 eyes in the Congregational Church ceremony. She and her husband are spending their honeymoon touring with the World Sunday School Movement, on a three-month jaunt.

Through her interpreter, trying oh, so hard to be sweet and gracious and apologize for not speaking English, the little bride made it known that:

"American girls are beautiful. I want to wear clothes like theirs. They look so cool and comfortable. Everybody looks so happy. Everything is so BIG."

It is the bigness that fascinated little Mrs. Gen. and her groom is a handsome Japanese, given to blushing when he looks at his beautiful wife and trying to look so old and experienced. The couple own a millinery store in Osaka and will return to the job of selling hats.

The bride likes the size of the American women. She said—which is interesting, by the way:

"This generation of Japanese are two or three inches taller than their parents. It is sitting in chairs, much gymnastics in school and good American games that makes them develop. If I am blessed with children they will no doubt tower over me."

Her friend, Mrs. Ichi Ikeda laughed and in perfect English told us:

"Ah, the Japanese girl is becoming American. Even my own four daughters make their own clothes—and will wear nothing but frocks."

It was a fascinating sight, the visiting women in native costumes and the men all looking like prosperous American business men in their staid clothes of the new world.

Will Rogers Says

SANTA MONICA, Cal., Aug. 1.

All America used to have to do to win the Olympics was to buy some steamer tickets over there.

The thought never entered our head that any nation could beat us in field sports because we were the first ones that specialized in one event and had trainers. Now they have all learned and are doing that so we are no greater than any other nation after they get onto our tricks.

Same way with our mass production and buying on credit. They are getting onto that now so it looks like prohibition is about all we have on 'em.

Yours, WILL.

OUR DAILY SHORT STORY

THE BROKEN DOLL

By ERIC HEATH

OLD Nick Bateley adjusted his metal-rimmed spectacles more firmly on his nose and peered through the narrow window of his little shop. A taxi had drawn up to the curb just outside.

The door of the machine was opened and a well-dressed, distinguished-looking man of about 35 stepped to the pavement. For an instant he scrutinized intently the front of the shop, as though to be sure this was the right place. As soon as he noticed the dirty, hand-made cardboard sign that hung lopsidedly against the shop window pane, and bore the words in crooked letters, "BROKEN DOLLS MENDED," he turned back and lifted a little girl out of the taxi. She was a pale little mite with a round, solemn face and light brown eyes. Across her forehead lay a thick bang of straight golden brown hair. She seemed to be about 7 or 8 years of age, but she might easily have been taken to be much younger, because she was so tiny and so fragile looking.

Nick put down on the counter the pot of glue and the brush he was holding. The front door bell gave a silvery tinkle, as the man and the child entered. Nick smiled and bowed at them in greeting. Though his homely old face was seared and lined, there was something exceptionally winning in his smile, something that always kept children from being in the least afraid of him.

He noticed that the little girl was carrying with the utmost care a large bulky package.

"You have broken your dolly. You have brought it to me to mend it for you," Nick said, holding out his hands for the package. The child walked over to the counter quickly, and trustingly let him him take the bundle. He unwrapped it.

"Dear me, dear me," he murmured, as he looked at the portions of what had been a doll with a china head. The body was chipped off. "What a terrible accident," Nick said sympathetically. "Dear me! What is her name?"

"Lily Belle," the child replied quickly, her faced turned up to him, full of hope.

"And what is your name?" he asked, while he continued to examine the wreckage.

"Kathleen Rogers," the child murmured absent-mindedly.

"I've told her that I didn't believe the doll could be fixed," the man said. "But she doesn't want me to buy her a new one."

A look of stubbornness came into Kathleen's face.

"She can!" she cried. "You can mend her, can't you?" she asked Nick pleadingly. He gazed at the child thoughtfully before he answered:

"She won't look near as beautiful as she did, but you won't mind that, will you? You'll love her just the same, won't you?"

An expression of joy crept over the wan little face.

"Oh yes!" the child cried, with deep feeling.

"Then you leave Lily Belle with me," Nick went on, "and I will see what I can do for her."

"When shall I come back to get the doll?" Mr. Rogers asked.

"I better have till next Saturday," Nick returned. "She'll be all ready next Saturday."

Kathleen gave the old man a wavering, grateful smile. Then she cast a last sad and affectionate look at the pitiful Lily Belle,, before she allowed her father to lead her out of the little shop.

Nick triumphantly picked up the rejuvenated Lilly Belle for Mr. Rogers' inspection. He had done his work so skilfully that the cracks in the face scarcely showed.

"I thought the little girl would surely come with you, for her doll," he remarked as he wrapped Lilly Belle carefully in an old piece of manila paper.

"She's ill," Mr. Rogers answered. "She's been staying in bed for two days."

"Oh, that's too bad," Nick exclaimed, with quick sympathy.

"She's not a strong child," Mr. Rogers explained.

"I could see she had been grieving. About her doll, no doubt."

Mr. Rogers turned aside abruptly, merely nodding in reply.

"I know. I can always tell. My own little one, too. It was the same way with her . . ." Nick's voice trailed off, brokenly. But in those few words, the other sensed something of the tragic desolation of the old man. Mr. Rogers was not in the habit of engaging in casual conversation with strangers. His manner was naturally cold, haughty, aloof. There was something hard and brittle about his personality that repelled friendly advances and easily proffered confidences. But evidently Nick sensed nothing of this, for he continued:

"She grieved over a broken doll, too. . . . A doll she loved so because her mother had given it to her. . . . I mended the doll. Then I mended dolls for other children. That's how I started out in business." He paused and shook his head, his faded blue eyes growing wistful over memories of the past that crowded into his mind. He seemed to be talking more to himself than to Mr. Rogers.

"After my wife died, I tried to take the place of a mother to my little one. I mended the doll. I did everything, all I could. . . . But I could not keep her from grieving. It was not about the doll. . . . She missed her mother too much."

Mr. Rogers drew his billfold from his pocket, with a gesture of impatience. He picked up the parcel Nick had finished tying, put some money on the counter and waited for Nick to make the change.

"I hope the little girl gets better real soon," Nick said, with feeling, as Mr. Rogers went toward the door.

"Thank you," he murmured, and then, surprising himself by his graciousness of tone, he added: "She'll be very grateful to you for having fixed her doll. Good day."

Almost a week later, in the front room of a shabby little flat, Kathleen Rogers' parents sat facing each other. They had not met in almost a year, since their divorce. The man could not help noticing how changed the woman who had been his wife was. She looked much older, and there was a difference in the expression of her eyes. They were softer, and much sadder.

"I believe I have been unnecessarily harsh," he was saying. "You are her mother and should have the right to see her. It's the child we should think of first of all. I did not realize how much she was longing for you, until she got ill. You remember that old doll with the china head you gave her? She broke it. She cried over that so much, I had be doll fixed. I think she loves the doll as a sort of—symbol of you."

Silence fell between them. At last the woman broke it by saying wistfully:

"Then you mean I can see her again?"

"That's what I came for today."

"When?" she asked eagerly, her face lighting up.

"Whenever you wish."

"Let me go now." She got up quickly. In the adjoining room she put on her hat and coat.

A moment later they went out together.

RMINAL COAL TO CONTINUE OPEN SHOP

Declaring that the Pittsburgh Terminal Coal Corporation would continue to operate its mines on a nonunion basis, Faber Downey, Jr., who succeeds Horace F. Baker as president of the concern, assumed the duties of his office this morning. He said that 2,100 men are employed in the six mines now working. The average daily output is 9,000 tons.

Downey set at rest the rumor that the corporation was preparing for a truce with the United Mine Workers of America in the following statement:

"There has been some discussion regarding the attitude of the Pittsburgh Terminal Coal Corporation toward the United Mine Workers. We are working on a nonunion basis and will continue on this basis. We have no intention of forcing the men who worked for us while there was a strike to join the union or seek employment elsewhere. We are giving our men steady work and will do so, but strictly nonunion."

SWISSVALE AIDS MILK, ICE FUND

On this first day of August it would be pleasant to record a sudden rush of gifts for the babies who are being helped through the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph Milk and Ice Fund, but there is just one contribution on today's list. That is a donation of $16 which some children of Whipple street, Swissvale, earned at a lawn fete given on Saturday night.

But there should be little complaint of late, because on most days the gifts have numbered four, five or six, and the fund is really growing with comforting rapidity. As a result, there will be many babies who are given a chance to survive the summer and get a good start for the winter through the generosity of Pittsburghers.

He brought up a pleased laugh, walked with a jaunty freedom. "Song writers are susceptible, my dear. And there's Wolfie Speed."

"Oh—Speed—oh, really? And I'll see him? He wrote 'Moon Garden' and 'Dai Nippon.' Ah-ha—" She put her hands together, pressing them tightly.

He lifted a great shoulder, laughed again. "Would that I had written 'Moon Garden!' Hold your ears, now."

He threw back an iron door; they stepped into a big, circular reception hall. Gray marble walls, palms about immense pillars, a fountain sending out a thin stream from a niche in the wall—a stream that dribbled in silver splashes to an oval basin green with water plants.

Besides this a band was rehearsing something humorous and quick; Ione had seen the leader's picture in the newspapers.

"Is it—oh, Mr. Benz! The famous Blackman—well, I'll die!"

"Before you've laid an eye on Wolfie? But there's greater than Blackman been here, my dear. Those rooms"—he waved toward doors all around the circle. "I'll show you."

He set ajar one door, disclosing three young women at a plain, ugly piano. She had an astonished impression of that piano. The enamel was off most of the keys; cigaret burns scarred deep in the panel along the top and on the shelf above the keyboard; it was scratched and battered—a seasoned old worrior of a piano. Yet the tone was round and clear.

She mentioned this to Benz; he nodded. "Why shouldn't the tone be true? They're tuned every day. Look, now—this is a sister act—a vaudeville team going over the songs with accompanist.

"Next door here is a chorus of Russian singers—"

He hurried along, pausing at each door. The studios all were the same—bare, square rooms, with only the piano, a stool and a couple of straight chairs.

Some of the "acts" practicing in the rooms had guitars or banjos or violins—every sort of instrument, in fact. They played softly, as did the pianists; nevertheless the sounds came out and mingled in a mighty discord that was tossed back and forth from wall to wall till the very air shivered.

And beneath it was the steady beating, monotonous as the stroke of tomtoms, evenly spaced, relentless, that is the rhytm of jazz.

They came to rooms much grander than those they had seen. These had cushioned divans and paintings about the walls and the pianos were baby grands in gleaming mahogany cases.

"For the swell acts," Benx explained. He named one or two vaudeville headliners and some musical comedy stars who came here to listen to new "numbers" and go over them with the writers.

Now he beckoned a beautiful artificial girl who was standing at the window and introduced her as Margaret Mayne. Ione thought she looked no older than herself, yet three years ago she had written a waltz that made hearts feel strangely light and set lips smiling as they hummed.

It was the sensation of a year, and Ione had read of the thousands it brought Miss Mayne.

She looked at her wide-eyed, asked timidly if she would play. The girl smiled obligingly, and struck into a gay, racing melody, singing in a husky voice and beating time on the floor with the toe of one foot and the high heel of the other.

"Her new number—just out," Benz whispered. Ione said her thanks with a warm rush of admiration. Later he asked her if she liked the people she had met. "You think you could get along with them?"

"Indeed—who couldn't? But why do you ask, kind sir?"

"Some of them are full of temperament, some just temper. I've had a thing in mind—but I'll tell you about it. Ah—the Wolf himself, in person.

A short, dark-complected man was coming along; an undistinguished person, Ione thought, save for a luminous something in his eyes.

He walked with his shoulders down, head dropped, as if his mind were somewhere else. Benz put out a hand as he went by; drew him back.

"Ha — the celebrated Wolfie Speed! Salaam, Miss Farr! Author of this and this—words and music—salary about what they pay the President of the United States—and can't read a note!"

"But—" Her face was like a big O; she touched Speed's arm. "But he doesn't mean that? Well—I don't understand—"

They laughed at her confusion; Speed explained: "It's true—I can't read a note, or play one either. All I can do is hum. I get an idea and hum it and a player puts it in writing for me.

"A few notes of melody, or perhaps it's a phrase of lyric sings itself to me and I develop it as the player goes along."

He told them about once when he was struck by a phrase. It was midnight in a Chicago hotel; there was no pianist to take down his melody; if he went to sleep he would forget it and it would be lost. So he sat up all night drinking black coffee to keep himself awake. The song, written on the back of an envelope the next morning, was one of the biggest popular hits of all time.

Ione saw Papa Weimer come suddenly charging down the room, looking exactly like a war tank she had seen in a movie. He kept waving a piece of manuscript and sputtering. "So, Eddie!" Purple beat in his wide cheeks.

They talked, he and Benz, with their faces close together and many flappy, furious gestures from the old man.

She watched them, shivering; when Benz turned away she ran after him, catching his elbow. "Oh—what is it? He looked so upset—has something happened?"

CHAPTER VI.

"FRIGHTENED, then? And me so near!"

There was no calamity, he told her, as they hurried back through the passage. Just a new number to be "hung on a plug." It always made Papa Weimar feel like that. He had the disposition of a child on Christmas Eve—all explosions.

But he wanted them to catch Ros before he left the theater after the matinee. Going over there himself, he was—knew the fellow.

She clutched his sleeve again, dancing along at his side—twisted it so he had to slow his pace.

"You mean Antony Ros? You're going to see him now? Oh, Mr. Benz—please—couldn't I go? Well—I'd love it so!"

Standing a-tiptoe now, lips parted, all young eagerness. He laughed and put his face down, close to hers. Black eyes, white, even teeth, red lips flashing—a vital, likable fellow.

"Well—"

"Ah—little fair one—" He drew a finger along the highlight on her dark head—brushed it down her chin, pursing his lips. "Who'd refuse you the moon and stars? Snappy, now—" He pushed her gently, hand on the back of her neck.

Antony Ros was the newest and most adored matinee idol in New York. Appearing first only a year ago in a musical comedy song and dance number, he was being featured before the end of the season and now was the star of "Lost Lady." Interviewers called him the "Perfect Lover" and his dark, storming eyes looked up into hundreds of adoring feminine faces all day long from bureaus and tables and desks.

But it wasn't just his eyes or his classic profile or his litheness that got him by. He danced astonishingly; he had a plaintive tenor which turned audiences dreamy and sometimes misty-eyed; he had personality.

But he also had temperament. It was this, Ione found out when she was waiting for Benz, that had so disturbed Papa Weimar.

"Best 'song plug' in America, girlie—and don't let 'em argue different. If he puts on this for us it's a wow. But will he, what I'm asking. Yeh—will he!"

Wolfie Speed told her that, plodding about in circles, scowling. It was his song, "Only You," they were taking to Ros.

He was to go with them, although he couldn't play and had no music in his voice, he could take off his songs in a way that taught the singers how to get the most out of them.

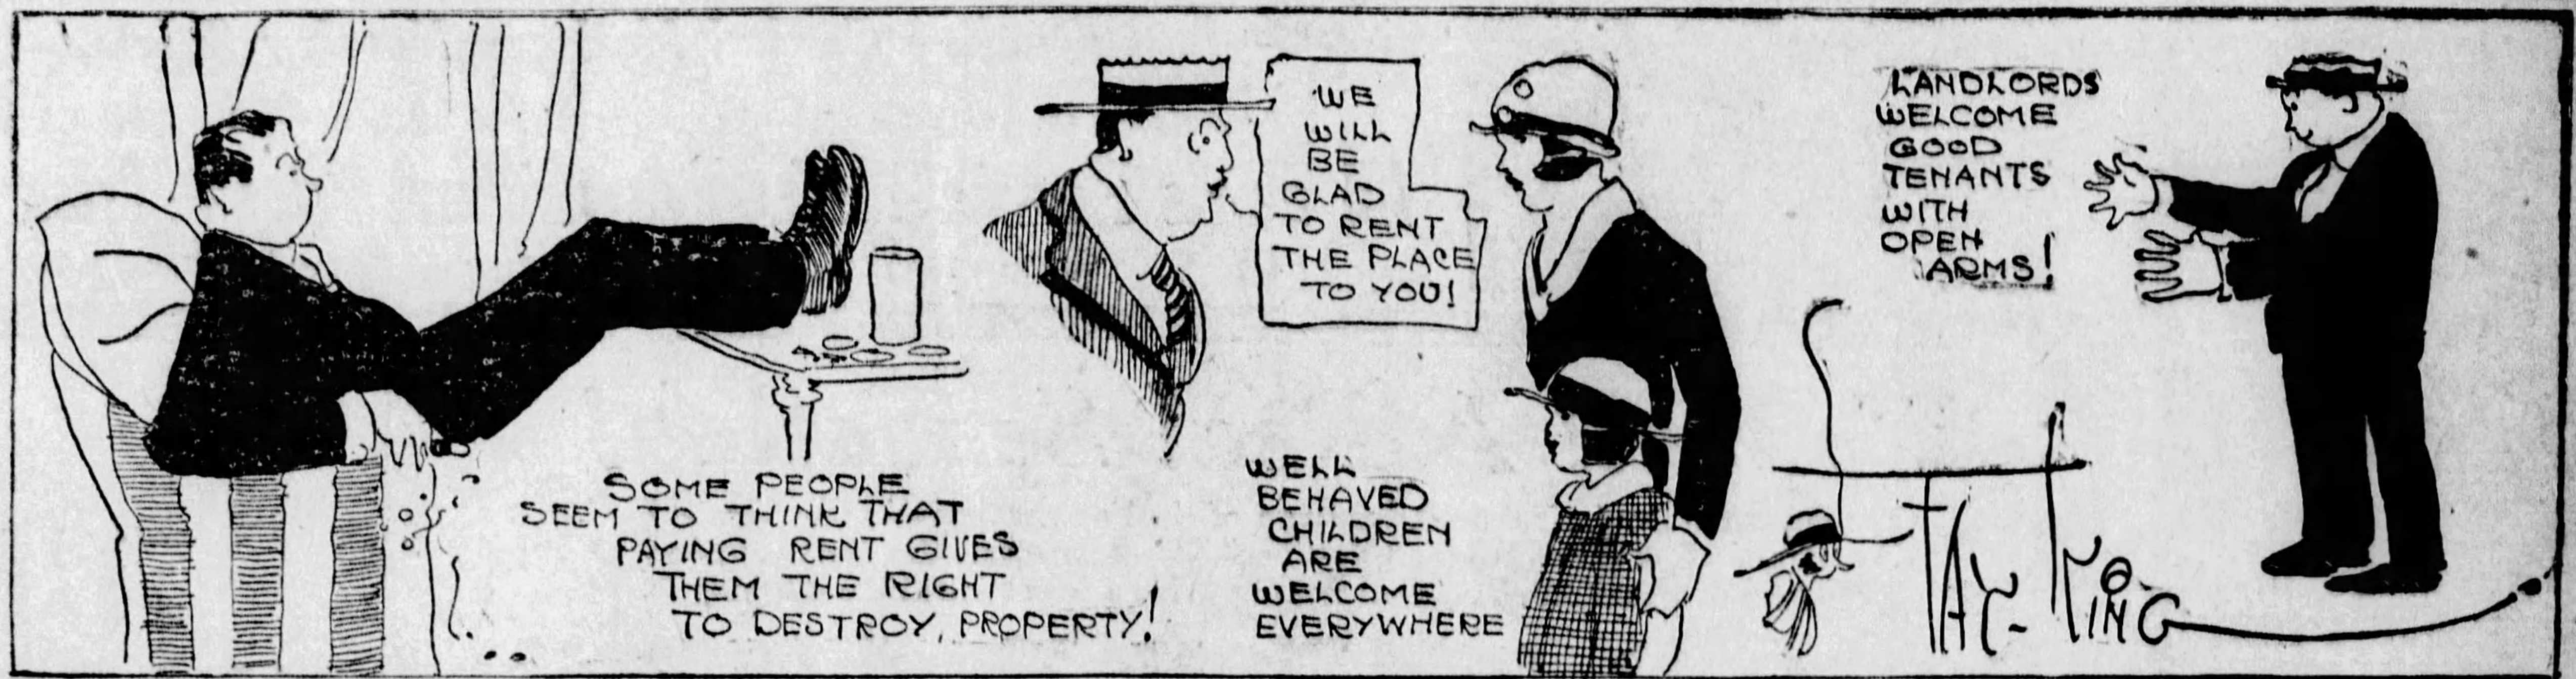
Consideration for Others, Says Fay King, Makes Desirable Tenants



SOME PEOPLE SEEM TO THINK THAT PAYING RENT GIVES THEM THE RIGHT TO DESTROY, PROPERTY!
WE WILL BE GLAD TO RENT THE PLACE TO YOU!
WELL BEHAVED CHILDREN ARE WELCOME EVERYWHERE
LANDLORDS WELCOME GOOD TENANTS WITH OPEN ARMS!
FAY-KING

By FAY KING

NEXT to those whose faith in a place is backed by their substantial investments, the most welcome persons to any community are good tenants!

Whether they tenant one room or a palace, what is most important to the owners and their neighbors is that the tenant be desirable.

Nor are those who can afford to pay the highest rent always the most desirable.

Good tenants invest a neighborhood with a value as important to its progress as is the investment of capital.

Neatness, quietness, prompt payment of all bills, respecters of their neighbors' rights and property, well behaved children, pets properly managed, in brief, common consideration which is bound to benefit all!

To be a desirable tenant is the first important step toward becoming a welcome owner!

To this GIRL MEN seemed fickle

SHE remembered so many of them ... the men who had rushed her at first—and then lost interest! Men who eagerly asked if they might call on her—and then went away before it was even nine o'clock!

Somehow she was conscious of the reason, too. She couldn't help seeing how her periods of depression, her nasty flashes of temper, must have grated on anybody she was with. Yet she accepted them as something inevitable...

SHE had tried to do away with the deadening, irritating poisons that kept accumulating in her system—tried all kinds of ordinary laxatives; "health foods" that took weeks to act, cathartics that wracked her system. And she'd come to hate them...

Feen-a-mint is different!

It is just like a bit of delicious chewing gum. You don't swallow it hastily—you chew it!

Its magic laxative principle is released slowly, the way science meant it to be released. It actually becomes part of the digestive fluids—does not disturb digestion. It works with the body—not against it!

It won't torture you with griping pains. It won't poison or weaken the system. It won't enslave you to laxative pills. Begin now to correct constipation this modern, scientific way.

MEDITATIONS of a MARRIED WOMAN

by HELEN ROWLAND

MAN, THE INSCRUTABLE

EVERY man likes to think of himself as a deep, dark, unfathomable mystery. Every man likes to feel that there is a hidden ide to his nature—that there are dark corners in his soul and his ife which have never been exposed or explored.

Why can a woman never let a man go right on feeling "in-rutable" after marriage? Why must she be constantly prying into his thoughts, asking him what he's doing and telling him that she sees through him?

N ROWLAND

It doesn't make him happy. It only makes him resentful. It doesn't make him more frank with her—it only makes him more cautious.

"I can't make you out." "I can't fathom you." "There is something back of your eyes that fascinates me—but I don't understand it!"

* * *

Any girl knows that these are the most effective and thrilling lines with which to flatter any man and to start him thinking about her. They make him feel so impressive!

Once he discovers that she understands him or is "on to him," s though the game of "I spy" were all over and the school bell rung for the end of the recess.

No man is so accursed and so miserable as the one who is arried to a curious woman, who is forever digging up his private oughts and unearthing his secret emotions. The average man's nd is as full of "reservations" as a World Court Treaty, and st of them are as personal and sacred to him as his toothbrush his razor.

He loves his secret societies because they give him something be mysterious and secretive about; something to look and act crutable about. Something to KEEP TO HIMSELF!

When he is a little boy, he loves to go about disguised as an dian or a bogey man or a pirate, and to hint darkly of secret easure and secret codes of which he alone knows.

And when he is a big man, he loves to play Sir Oracle and ok wise and talk in cryptic monosyllables. Or to play Santa laus and spring surprises on everybody. Or to play Grand Pooh ah, and have everybody walking around on egg-shells and ondering what he will do next.

The woman who can open her baby eyes wide and look at him with admiring awe and astonishment has won a whole lap in the ace for his affections. But the woman with brains has a big andicap to overcome. Her glance of perfect comprehension, like keen surgical knife, cuts clear through to his vanity.

The woman who is continually saying, "I see through you!" is bluffing. The woman who really UNDERSTANDS a man is the one who never lets him KNOW it! The one who lets him go right on being "inscrutable!"

Embarrassed

DEAR MISS GALE:

I have a serious question to ask you. One which would embarrass most anyone. This is it: After being introduced to a person and keeping company with them all evening what is the proper thing to say when it is time to leave them? Thanking you for your time and space. I hope to see this in print soon. I am,

EMBARRASSED.

Just say that you are glad to have met them, and "good-night."

Blue Eyes

DEAR MISS GALE:

I have been reading your wonderful advice. I am 20 years old and I am very pretty, the type that all men like. It seems the only kind of fellows I meet like to drink and that also means I have to do the same to be a good sport. They all like to pet and so do I. I also smoke, but would like to stop. I am in love with a married man, but Miss Gale, he has a family, but he is willing to leave them if I only say so. Tell me what shall I do? I hope to see this in the paper and thanks for your advice.

BLUE EYES.

You seriously ask me whether or not you should have this man desert his family? You know, yourself, that that would be very wrong and that no happiness could come to either of you through wrecking all those lives. Do you really consider it necessary to drink and pet to be popular? Most girls find that they can win friends through their own personalities, and not their willingness to be "good sports."

The Unattainable -:- -:- By Fanny Darrell

"HITCHING your wagon to a star" seems an easy stunt in comparison to finding out whether the lady of your heart and dreams REALLY does care for you. She's lovely and sympathetic and sweet and everything in the world you could possibly want, yet she inspires you with the feeling that she's something holy, unapproachable, and you're afraid to tell her all that's in your heart.

The lure of the unattainable! What an incentive! For as soon as you think you can't have something, immediately it's the most to be desired something in the world. And the harder it is to get the more you want and appreciate it. Love—true love, is like that sometimes. What you must fight for to win is the sweetest and the real-est. So the seemingly unattainable is sometimes but the sweet, shy reserve of a pure heart, which hides the golden treasure of a real, true love. Therefore, never lose heart!

Absorbing Sequel to "Revelations of a Wife"

By ADELE GARRISON

I LAUGHED at Lillian's prediction of the stuffed, torpid condition which would be the lot of all the partakers of the "pirate steak" dinner which was to be the chief feature of our beach party. But I knew that her prophecy was not a greatly exaggerated one, and that the members of the animated group who had begun the day's enjoyment by swimming, canoeing and lunching at the bay, and who had then driven to our favorite camping place upon the ocean beach, would be valiant trenchermen at the camp dinner, which our family at least consider the most appetizing of all outdoor meals.

The spot to which we brought our guests is a wide stretch of wonderful white sandy beach with curving high dunes at the back and sides, making an ideal shelter. It is so far from the bathing beaches and the beaten track that we are almost always assured of privacy and in the lee of one of the dunes we have piled stones and bricks for use in out outdoor cookery.

Katie, with the tremendous responsibility of her office as director of the feast heavy upon her, gave the pile of stones an anxious inspection when we reached the spot.

"Goot ting I brought me some extra bricks," she muttered. "Some goot for noting boonch soup greens steal some of dese."

No one ventured to dispute her, although we were amusedly skeptical of her accusation of theft of the worthless bricks and stones. But those of us who have partaken of the pirate steaks which Katie, with the aid of "dot Jeem," her good-natured patient, and wonderfully efficient husband, has served to us, bow to her skill and holding our breaths do not venture to irritate her while the meal is in progress.

"Goot ting lots of young mans here," Katie said next, casting a speculative eye upon Dicky, young Jackson and Noel Veritzen. "Me, I need lots of vood."

"Why don't you say me, Katie?" Junior demanded excitedly. "I always carry lots of driftwood, you know I do."

"Sure ting," she responded, beaming at him. "You get best kind vot Katie likes. But coom now eferybody, make eet snappy. I vant first batch of vood here in five-ten meenits. Den you go back for some more."

I wondered if Lillian caught as I did the startled glance which Eleanor Lincoln sent young Mr. Jackson, and the arching eyebrows of his returning look. It was an exchange of glances which set the two apart some way, subtly betrayed that this rustic merry-making with everybody gathering driftwood at the behest of a serving maid, was something absolutely beyond their experience and understanding.

But beyond that first involuntary exchange of glances, they let no hint of their surprise escape them, and the next minute saw Dicky, Junior, Marion, Mary, Miss Lincoln and young Mr. Jackson racing down the beach in search of the driftwood which is the first requisite for our beach dinners.

"How about it, Phil?" Lillian challenged as she and I came up to the chair and umbrella which Otto, under his master's direction, was arranging in the shelter of a dune for Mother Graham. "Are you going to renew your youth by gathering driftwood with me?"

Tomorrow's Horoscope

Thursday, August 2.

WHILE this may not be predicted as a day of dullness or inertia, yet, according to the lunar figures, there may be adverse conditions of many phases to combat or harmonize. The inclination to provoke strife and unpleasantness in the personal as well as business relations should be suppressed, lest there be loss and confusion of every nature, attended by destructive change.

Those whose birthday it is may expect a lively year, but one of turmoil, strife and unhappiness, unless they keep firm grip on tongue and temper and also maintain harmony in their personal contacts and relations.

A child born on this day may be keen and clever, but may need early training and discipline in self-control and good nature, lest it bring personal as well as business calamity on itself.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

Guard the Heart Against Ailments

EVERY organ and cavity of the body has a delicate lining membrane. Nature, noted for finished workmanship, leaves no ragged edges or unfinished corners.

DR. COPELAND

It is only natural that the heart, an organ so essential to life itself, should be particularly well finished. Its interior is carefully and perfectly lined with a membrane called the "endocardium."

No matter where such lining membranes are found, their very delicacy and tenderness render them liable to infection and disease. The wonder is they are not more commonly involved. It is a great tribute to the wisdom and genius of the Creator that they are not. The functions of the body are so wonderfully well directed that such delicate tissues as I have described are rarely attacked by serious disease.

But sometimes the endocardium becomes inflamed. When it does, the ailment is known as "endocarditis." The disease is almost always a symptom of some other trouble. It is rare indeed to have the endocardium originally attacked. Almost always the inflammation follows some other disease. For instance, scarlet fever, pneumonia, Bright's disease, diabetes, gout, rheumatism and St. Vitus' dance may have endocarditis as a secondary disturbance.

In this disease, the doctor may find that the valves of the heart, which are covered with the same delicate membrane, are not closing properly. Sometimes there is serious thickening of the valves and marked interference with their action.

In telling you about a lot of diseases, I have said that "the surest means of cure is their prevention." Endocarditis should be an unknown disease. If we could guard against the ailments which cause it, there would be no endocardial attacks.

It will be a long time before we can protect ourselves against disturbing illnesses which may not be serious in themselves, but which lead to all sorts of secondary troubles. Until then we must accept these ailments and submit to their treatment.

The first thing to do in endocarditis is to give absolute rest to the victim. This may mean weeks and even months of quiet. Rest and sleep and plain diet—these are the simple rules of conduct in overcoming the disease.

The original ailment must be given first consideration. If it can be controlled, the endocarditis takes care of itself.

Don't fool yourself: Since halitosis never announces itself to the victim, you simply cannot know when you have it.

Make yourself welcome

Before meeting others be sure you don't have halitosis

It is impossible to tell when you have halitosis. It doesn't announce itself to you. But it does to others. And that offends.

Don't take the chance. Before any appointment where you wish to appear at your best, use Listerine, which checks halitosis instantly.

Use it systematically every morning and night, and in between times—especially before meeting others. It puts you on the polite—and popular—side.

Listerine is so powerful a deodorant that it removes the odors of onion and fish. Naturally it makes short work of milder, but more offensive, odors arising in the mouth.

SPEAKING OF SPORTS

by HARRY KECK SPORTS EDITOR

HOW long will France retain its grip on the Davis Cup, which it snared from the United States last year and easily defended this year, when it won four out of five matches? And what will be done about the case of Bill Tilden, who scored our only victory, upon the return of the American forces from the unsuccessful stand at Auteuil? These are the questions uppermost in the minds of the followers of the sport.

The answers would appear to be:

1. For quite a few seasons, with such birds as LaCoste, Cochet, Brugnon, Borotra and a few up-and-coming juveniles hanging around.

2. Practically nothing.

SPEAKING of great "comebacks," there always is Artie Nehf, the the little southpaw veteran of the Cubs, who is having one of his best seasons after having been tossed into the discard by the Giants and Reds. With all of the fuss that is being made about Walter Hagen and Bill Tilden and a few others who have come back from the brink of defeat recently, we mustn't forget Artie, who is more than repaying Manager Joe McCarthy for giving him a chance when everybody else thought he was through.

A NEWSPAPERMAN suddenly found himself thrust into an important role and came through with a bang when Eddie Forbes was named to referee the Tunney-Heeney fight last week. The general choice for the job was Lou

DUAL BILL IS CARDED SATURDAY

By CHARLES J. DOYLE,
Staff Correspondent.

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 1.—Rain caused a postponement of the first game of the Pittsburgh - Philadelphia series scheduled here this afternoon. The showers of the morning were not heavy, but the skies were cloudy, indicating more rain.

The local management, in giving out the postponement, announced that the contest would help to make up a double-header to be played Saturday.

Unless the Pirates snap into a winning stride immediately, Manager Donie Bush will announce one or two rather important changes in his lineup. At the conclusion of yesterday's one-sided defeat at the hands of the Braves, 11-5, the pilot of the club indicated he was displeased at the loose fielding show put on by his players.

He seemed to be particularly put out by the way Sparky Adams handled Clark's grounder in the first round. In view of the circumstances it would not be at all surprising if Dick Bartell were to supplant Little Sparky at second base.

Adams is hitting far below the mark expected of him in Pittsburgh and his fielding has not been up to the standard anticipated by Bush and the followers of the club. There is no doubt that Sparky is hustling; he always tries, but he is not getting the results.

The debacle at Braves Field yesterday started out auspiciously for the Buccos, but it ended all the other way. With the Waner boys in the feature role with a single and a double, the Buccos were able to load up the sacks with one out in the first. Traynor could not drive in a run and Clark was able to nail Brickell's screaming liner.

Dempsey Not Sure He'll Come Back

BOSTON, Aug. 1.—(INS.)—A heavyweight title battle between a couple of Jacks—Dempsey and Sharkey—loomed on the fistic horizon today in the wake of the Gene Tunney retirement announcement.

Dempsey was back in New York today after acting as announcer at the Mays-Schaaf bout here last night.

The former champion left behind him a series of conflicting statements. Some of them were:

"I do not know just what I shall do, but I may fight again and if I do I think it will be with Jack Sharkey.

"I have no intention of ever fighting again, but I may change my mind."

"I will re-enter the ring, but not until my theatrical contract expires."

"As it looks now, I am through with fighting, my ambition is to be a perfect husband and be the father of a fine family."

However, the press wires hardly finished telling of Tunney's retirement when John Buckley, Sharkey's manager, was called to New York by Tex Rickard for a conference.

One thing Dempsey emphasized—that he would not lay claim to the world heavyweight title—he will win it in the ring, not in the newspapers or in a popularity contest, he said.

LOUGHRAN TO CLAIM TITLE

WILDWOOD, N. J., Aug. 1.—Tommy Loughran, light-heavyweight champion of the world, said he would file a claim to the world heavyweight championship vacated yesterday by Gene Tunney.

The light-heavyweight champion said he planned to file with the New York and Pennsylvania Athletic Commissions. Loughran said he was sure he would win the title even if he had to fight for it. He is vacationinng here.

"If Tunney decides to enter the ring again I will be willing to meet him," Loughran said.

PAULINO IS SORRY

SAN SEBASTIAN, Spain, Aug. 1.—Paulino Uzcudun, heavyweight champion of Europe, is sorry that Gene Tunney has retired from boxing, he said today when informed that the world heavyweight titleholder had vacated the title.

Paulino announced he will leave for La Havre, France, August 15, and then for the United States where he hopes to secure some "good matches."

"I shall not return from America until I am world champion," he added.

TO MEET SHARKEY

MINNEAPOLIS, Aug. 1.—(AP.)—Big Boy Peterson, Minneapolis heavyweight, has been signed for a 10-round match with Jack Sharkey at Boston, August 23, his manager, Mike Collins, has announced.

CANADIAN SCORES DOUBLE WIN

OLYMPIC STADIUM, AMSTERDAM, Aug. 1.—(AP.)—A double triumph for the 19-year-old Canadian boy, Percy Williams, who added the 200 meters to his 100-meter victory to gain the world sprint title, crowned another disastrous day for Americans on the Olympic track.

Williams won as impressively as he had in the 100, with the only American finalist, Jackson Scholz, the defending champion, tied with the German, Helmut Koernig, for third.

It was the third Yankee setback of the day on the track, for the 110-meter hurdles were won by Sidney Atkinson from Stephen Anderson and two other Americans while Lloyd Hahn's downfall was completed when he was forced to quit in the 1,500-meter trials.

America found some satisfaction when two of its pole vaulters, Sabin Carr and William Droegemueller, both shattered the Olympic record, clearing 4.10 meters, the equivalent of 13 feet 5 7-16 inches.

HOUSER WINS DISCUS

Bud Houser held up the United States reputation for strength in the field events by winning the discus championship with an Olympic record-breaking toss of 47-32 meters, or 155 feet 2 161-128 inches.

The Los Angeles dentist thus retained his title won in 1924, when his winning effort was 46.155 meters and broke his own Olympic record set on that occasion, which is the equivalent of 151 feet 5 1-16 inches.

Al Kivi, of Finland, was second to Houser and Jim Corson, an American, was third, all surpassing the Olympic record. John Anderson, of Cornell, third United States representative, was fifth.

CARR WINS IN VAULT

Sabin Carr brought the United States the pole vault championship which, together with Houser's discus throwing victory, somewhat offset the defeat of Americans in the dash and hurdles earlier.

Carr's winning vault was 4.20 meters, a new Olympic record and the equivalent of 13 feet 9 6-16 inches. It was previously announced that William Droegemueller, a teammate, has equaled this vault, but the officials erred, later announcing that the latter was second with 4.10 meters, or 13 feet 5 7-16 inches. The old record was 13 feet 5 inches, set by another American, F. K. Foss, at the Antwerp games in 1920.

The Stars and Stripes went up on all three poles for the first time when Charley McGinnis, the little Chicagoan, took third place in the pole vault with 3.95 meters, or 12 feet 11⅛ inches.

McGinnis tied with Vic Pickard, of Canada, and Lee Barnes, who shared the Olympic championship in 1924 through a tie with Glenn Graham, for third place today, but won the jump-off for the medal. Pickard then beat Barnes for the fourth place points.

STARS ELIMINATED

America's defeat in the 200-meter final was presaged by the elimination of three of its most prominent standard bearers in earlier heats. Scholz was left alone to carry the Stars and Stripes in the final when Charley Paddock and Henry Cumming found the pace of the semifinals earlier in the day too hot and were eliminated, while Charley Borah failed to qualify yesterday.

Williams' showing was as uniformly brilliant throughout the 200

Pittsburgh Team Leads

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 1.—(AP.)—Frank Brokl, of St. Paul, led the pack today as contenders for the National lic Links Golf championship entered the second stage of qualifying round. In his first 18 yesterday Brokl spun a three strokes below Samuel Graham, Pittsburgh; Earl Mc- leer, Washington, and Elliott Martin, Jacksonville, who tied or second best. C. J. Lunden, Pittsburgh, was the only other player to break 80. His score was 79.

A score of 106 was the highest. Thirty-two competitors will be eligible for match play rounds, with indications that 165 for 36 holes will qualify.

When late finishers were turning in their scores the gallery showed keen interest in proceedings concerning the participation in the tournament of two Negroes, Robert Ball of Chicago and Elmer Stout of Newark.

It was the first time in the public championship th t the color line has been involved, and for hours the committee in charge considered the situation. Some recommended exclusion of the two contestants, but after long discussion they were permitted to compete. Both finished in the low 80's and seemed reasonably certain of qualifying.

Jim Reidy of Worcester, Mass., 49, is the oldest player among the 136 individual entries. His three sons are also competing. The youngest player is Don O'Brien, 15, of Baltimore.

Of the 23 four-man teams competing for the Harding Trophy, the Pittsburgh team, including Carl Kaufmann, defending public links champion, is in the lead with a total of 332 points. St. Louis was second with 335 and Cleveland third with 336.

Sam Graham, Pittsburgh police lieutenant; Elliott Martin, a 19-year-old Jacksonville player, and Earl McAleer, of Washington, the 1924 medal winners, appear to be the players most likely to keep pace with Brokl. This trio has 78 each to tie for second place at the end of the first 18 holes.

NOTES of the BOXERS

THE card has been completed for the boxing show at Cycler Park, McKeesport, tomorrow night with the signing of Mike Hogan of the North Side and George Mareau of Charleroi to meet in the opening bout. They are lightweights. Cuddy DeMarco meets Larry Brignolia in the 10-round main bout, Ken Hargraves boxes Johnny Ryan in the semi-final and Jimmy Belmont and Allen Beatty clash in the second event, a truly all-star bill.

The Oak Till-Garfield Johnson show scheduled for the Duquesne Steel baseball park next Monday night has been set back one week to August 13 by Promoter Jules Beck. A mixup in dates makes it impossible for Till to show here on Monday. He is billed to box Billy Vidabeck at Buffalo that night. Both are former sparring partners of Gene Tunney, the newly-retired heavyweight champion.

Dave Shade boxes Rene DeVos at the Arena A. C. in Philadelphia tonight. Babe McGorgary and Buddy Burke will meet in the 10-round semi-final.

Young Rudy and Joe Colombo have been matched for the 10-round windup of a show at Washington, Pa., next Monday night. Battling Gizzy and Tommy Heilman will meet in the semi-final.

meter preliminaries as it had been at the shorter distance, in which he upset the dope by winning the championship, and his victory in the final was a crowning glorious achievement.

Williams won by a good yard from Koernig, while Walter Rangeley, of Britain, appeared to be third, but the judges wrangled and delayed the decision. Scholz, the American, was apparently fourth. The veteran started well, but lacked speed in the final dash down the straight-away.

Williams, as in the 100, had tremendous speed left for the final dash after trailing the leaders until near the finish. The curly-haired Canadian boy was unbeatable as the Americans were shut out in the Olympic sprints for the first time in 20 years.

WINNER IS MOBBED

Williams was nearly mobbed and was photographed with a Canadian flag draped around him.

The time of the 200 meters was 21 4-5 seconds, 1-5 second slower than the record.

Lloyd Hahn, the United States hope in the middle distances, who was beaten in the 800 meters yesterday, was eliminated today in the 1,500 meters today in the second trial heat, quitting 100 meters from the finish when hopelessly defeated. Herbert Boecher, of Germany, won the heat.

Thus ended an ignominous failure the high hopes of Hahn, the ace of the American pack, and his countrymen, that he would be able to emulate the feat accomplished by Mal Sheppard in 1908 and score a double in these classic Olympic fixtures. Hahn's showing was even more dismal today than it was yesterday, when he was fifth in the 800 which Douglas Lowe, of Britain, won.

Charley Paddock, American sprint star, was eliminated in the first 200-meter semi-final Olympic event. The track was soggy and a drizzling rain was falling.

Percy Williams, the Canadian star who swept to a brilliant victory in the 100-meter final on Monday, won the heat.

The Canadian 100-meter champion flashed a splendid performance on the wet track, covering the distance in 22 seconds flat and beating Walter Rangeley of Great Britain by three yards.

UPSETS MARK CENTER NET TOURNEY

By PAUL G. SULLIVAN.

Signal form reversals marked the opening session of play in the annual Pittsburgh Center junior and boys' net championships inaugurated yesterday under Pittsburgh Tennis Association auspices on the courts of the P. A. A. and the University Club. Barring the fact that Billy O'Loughlin, 1927 titleholder, and Bob Lampus, Harvard Cup premier, forged to the semi-finals of the junior event, it may be truthfully recorded that favored luminaries found the going exceedingly rough.

The summaries:

Jones, 6-1, 6-2; Walter Arensberg defeated Edgar Alcorn, 6-8, 6-3, 6-3; Frank Broida defeated Dave Cohen, 6-0, 6-3; William Creighton defeated Joe Bloom, 7-5, 6-4; Alan Jack defeated Harry Wald, 6-4, 6-13; Robert Lampus defeated Tom Pickering, 6-0, 6-1; Stewart Snodgrass defeated Jack Robinson, 6-2, 6-3.

Round two: Lampus defeated Snodgrass, 6-1, 6-3; O'Loughlin defeated Goodman, 6-3, 6-2; Broida defeated Arensberg, 7-5, 5-7, 7-5; Creighton defeated Jack, 3-6, 6-8, 6-3.

BOYS' SINGLES

SET POLO DATES

SPEAKING of SPORTS

by HARRY KECK
SUN-TELEGRAPH SPORTS EDITOR

Magnolia, the favorite of the New York fans. Mag-nol-ia was not picked because the newspapers said he was the only man for the job. His popularity beat him out of it. However, it is doubtful if he could have handled the big battle in finer fashion than Forbes, whose maneuvering was faultless in that he did not bother either the fighters or the spectators and used splendid judgment in stopping the fight when he did. Another punch, in Heeney's pitiful condition, with his hands down, might have resulted seriously.

Forbes has been connected with the boxing game for three decades as a writer and referee. He works as a copy-reader on a Brooklyn newspaper.

AT that, Forbes might have functioned even more perfectly if he had been notified sooner that he was to officiate. If he had stopped the bout a week earlier, he would have saved Tex Rickard's pocketbook as well as Heeney.

BABE RUTH is knocking at the door of his jinx month in his specialty of knocking the ol' apple where the fielders can't reach it, and perhaps it is just as well that he has made such a fine start toward again breaking his own record. He hasn't been so hot during the last week of July, but the records show that August always has been his worst month, with July his best period and September his next best. The Bambino can afford to suffer a bit of a letdown now if he runs true to his usual September "comeback" and still be able to romp on home to that new mark of 61 or more homers in a season.

JIM M'GIRR, the McKeesport promoter of boxing shows, has a warm spot in his heart for Cuddy DeMarco, the Charleroi-McKeesport lightweight, who boxes for him again tomorrow night, meeting Larry Brignolia in the main bout of 10 rounds at Cycler Park.

"The boxing fans, who from time to time press thumbs down on Cuddy, do not know the real DeMarco," Jim said, in the course of a conversation yesterday. "DeMarco is the ONLY boxer who started out on his professional career at my club who has shown any sense of gratitude. He always is willing to box anybody I select for him at whatever price I can afford to pay and doesn't do any quibbling. And, regardless of what lapses of form he may show elsewhere, there always is a thrill or two in his bouts when he fights for me.

"I'll never forget Cuddy for one thing he did for me a few years ago. I had him matched with Johnny Mellow, of Detroit, and had to guarantee Mellow $500 to take the bout. DeMarco, who had agreed to box for a percentage, heard about this and remarked, casually: 'Pretty soft for Mellow getting a $500 guarantee.'

" 'You can have the same terms,' I replied, for the bout looked as if it would draw a big gate. Cuddy took me up.

"THE night of the fight we ran into a severe snowstorm and the gate totaled only around $1,000, just enough to pay the main-bouters. It was a great fight, and a tough one for Cuddy, who was floored several times. At the finish I wanted to rematch them so I would get a chance to break even, but Mellow wouldn't talk business. I paid him off his $500 and paid the preliminary boys. When Cuddy came around to the office, I said:

" 'You've got $500 coming to you, but I've got only $200 left. It was a bum gate.'

" 'That's all right,' Cuddy replied. 'Give me what you have and let me have the rest when you get it—and I'll fight Mellow again for you for no guarantee and five per cent less than I originally agreed to take for this fight.'

"That made a hit with me, and I told Cuddy to come around the next day and I'd give him my check for the $300 I owed him. I can't remember any other boxer ever acting that decently in his business relations with me."

"SO LONG, Gene, old top—see you in the fall of next year at Speculator."

That's our reaction to Gene Tunney's announcement that he's through with the boxing game because there's no one to fight and won't be for a few years, and he's dropping out to get into some other business while he's still young.

Tunney really may be sincere in wanting to quit at this time, but he'll find the old lure of the game tugging at him when the heavyweight business picks up again, and he'll be back with us to fight the winner of the elimination tournament for which he is going to put up a belt.

THEY always come back. Jack McAuliffe didn't, but the urge remained strong within him. Benny Leonard would like to, but he's been out too long now and is afraid to risk an attempt. Jeffries and Willard and Dempsey all came back for another fling. Gene is in his prime and with the care he takes of himself he'll keep fit, and it's dollars to doughnuts he'll be back by "public demand" when the stage is set for another $2,000,000 gate.

Meanwhile, the Sharkeys, Riskos, Paulinos, Heeneys, Hansens and Loughrans will be making money for Rickard and themselves in the big elimination. Who said the days of ballyhoo in the fistic racket are dead?

PIRATES

which might just as well have been a three-run three-bagger.

Lee Meadows, starting his second game of the season, was one of the immediate victims of the punch the poor Braves had saved up for somebody. The failure of Traynor and Adams to flag down the first two balls hit by the Braves in the opening round helped to get Lee in a jam and when Sisler and Hornsby and Company started to do their base hit stuff, Lee just naturally had to leave the hill before he could retire a Boston player.

Should Tips Be Abolished And Higher Wages Paid?

—By B. C. FORBES—

PULLMAN porters demand more pay and threaten to strike if they do not get it. In exchange, they say they will stop taking tips. Should all tipping be abolished?

ONE'S first impulse is to reply emphatically, "Yes." But let's see.

The other day I walked into the dining car of a train about 11:30 and asked if I could have something to eat. The colored waiter said, "Lunch isn't ready." I told him I would be glad to have anything that was ready. He walked away, and up came the (white) steward in charge. He also told me that lunch wasn't ready, and I again explained that I would be glad to have anything. He repeated, rather gruffly, "Lunch isn't ready," and added, "When it's ready the announcement will be made through the train." I next asked him if I couldn't have a cup of tea, but he repeated his lunch-not-ready statement and walked away.

Knowing the president of this railroad and how confidently he talks about the unfailing courtesy practiced on his line, I wrote out an account of the little incident and asked the steward to read it over to see that the statements I made were in exact accordance with what had happened.

At first he was inclined to be defiant.

By and by he came back and said he wanted to apologize and asked me not to send the letter. I told him that I didn't think his attitude towards customers did either him or the road credit. He admitted that he should not have acted the way he did and said it would be a lesson to him to be more careful in the future. So, of course, I tore up the letter.

WHAT has this to do with Pullman porters and the whole question of tipping?

Just this: I have found, and doubtless you have found, that where efforts are being made to earn a tip, the service usually is either fairly good or very good, whereas the attitude of many employes who are not in the tip-earning class often is indifferent, not to say high-handed. Certainly I had never run across a Pullman porter who acted as discourteously as this steward acted.

ISN'T it true that most workers who know their job well like to be paid according to results? As a matter of fact, piecework has become extremely common, especially in the newer industries. Capable, willing, industrious workers find that they can earn more than the minimum or base pay when they are remunerated according to their output.

I have heard women folk declare that they usually can tell a store where the sales clerks receive a commission; the attitude there is one of anxiety to please, whereas in too many stores where the clerks are paid straight wages the attitude is one of cold indifference.

NOW, isn't tipping, in a sense, a method of being paid, at least in some measure, according to results?

There are many occasions when it gives me genuine pleasure to reward gracious attention with a generous gratuity. Sometimes, on the other hand, I hate to feel under the obligation of handing over even a modest tip.

WHAT every well-managed organization wants to furnish is satisfactory service to customers. Unless a concern can do that it goes to the wall sooner or later. Our railway managers of today are among those who attach importance to giving such service.

Now, the question arises whether customers would receive more agreeable treatment were the tipping of Pullman porters forbidden.

There is room for plenty of difference of opinion. The ideal thing, of course, would be for us to be treated just right everywhere and under all circumstances without ever having to bestow a tip, for, after all, there is something un-American, something savoring of caste, in the giving and receiving of tips. But at this stage of human nature is it not expecting too much to look for ideal service from certain classes of workers without paying a dime or a quarter or a dollar more to make sure of getting it?

Remember, that if we didn't have to pay tips, we would have to pay more in order to meet higher wages.

STOCKS IGNORE HIGH MONEY, RUSH UP

NEW YORK, Aug. 1.—(AP.)—Disregarding high call money rates, the stock market today gave an impressive demonstration of strength in which at least a dozen issues were marked up to new high levels for the year. Trading showed a marked expansion in volume in reflection of increasing public participation.

Call money renewed at 7½ per cent, the highest initial charge since July 13, but a plentiful supply of funds made its appearance at that figure, and a lower rate is looked for shortly. Time money and commercial paper rates held firm. Outside the stock market, chief speculative interest centered in another break of $2.50 a bale in cotton prices on reports of continued favorable crop weather.

U. S. Steel common was rather sluggish, probably because Wall street had expected larger earnings per share in the first half of the year. Radio and General Motors shook off their early heaviness, the former selling 4½ points above yesterday's final quotation by early afternoon.

Violent advances took place in some of the high priced specialties which have been under pool sponsorship. Case Threshing soared 17¼ points, National Tea 17 to a new high record at 282, and Indian Refining preferred 14½. Montgomery Ward continued its sensational advance by climbing 8 points to a new high record at 192⅞. International Harvester, Atlantic Refining, Johns Manville, Frank G. Shattuck, Coca Cola and Houston advanced 4 to nearly 8 points.

New peak prices for the year, or longer, also were registered by American Can, Electric Auto Lite, Grand Stores, Jewel Tea, Kroger Stores, Pillsbury Flour, Real Silk Hosiery, Sears Roebuck and Worthington Pump.

CHICAGO BOARD

CHICAGO, Aug. 1.—All deliveries of wheat dropped today to the lowest prices yet this season. Expectations that August private crop estimates would prove bearish were more than fulfilled both as to wheat and corn. Opening ⅜ to 1⅛c off, the wheat market underwent a further sag. On the other hand, corn developed strength, starting unchanged to ½c lower, but quickly scoring general gains. Oats were easy. Provisions likewise tended downward.

At noon, wheat was 1⅛c to 1⅜c net lower and corn at ¾c to 2⅝c advance.

Even before the monthly unofficial crop estimates were out today, wheat prices displayed weakness, influenced by Liverpool quotations lower than due. Later, the August 1 private crop figures were shown to average 565,000,000 bushels as the prospective yield of winter wheat and 286,000,000 bushels of spring wheat, as against the July average of 520,000,000 bushels winter and 248,000,000 bushels spring. The total generally looked for today had been 800,000,000 bushels to 820,000,000 bushels instead of 851,000,000.

In the corn market, future delivery offerings today were light, and prices advanced readily with September displaying the most strength. Indications of scarcity of corn available for use before December had a bullish influence. Futhermore, one of the leading unofficial crop experts here said today that the present indicated yield per acre, 29 bushels, has been exceeded only 9 times in 62 years and that ideas of 3,000,000,000 bushels yield or upward are unjustified in mid season.

QUIET TRADING SESSION ON LOCAL EXCHANGE

ROUND TABLE of BUSINESS

By GEORGE H. SNYDER.

Reymer Stock to Be Offered Public. Standard Sanitary Prospers—Freed Oil Funds Paid Out.

HE first step has been taken toward public participation in ownership of Reymer & Broth[illegible], Inc., with the calling of a special meeting of stockholders on October 3 to ratify the necessary changes in capitalization. A local firm is expected to offer a block of the stock for sale at some time within the next few months.

HOLDERS of the 10,000 shares of stock of $100 par value now outstanding will be asked to exchange their stock for new stock without par value on a basis of eight shares of new for one of old. The total authorized capitalization of the company will be fixed at 200,000 shares. Of this, 80,000 shares will be distributed to present stockholders, 10,000 shares will be sold to employes and the 110,000 remaining shares will be sold to the public.

REYMER BROTHERS, INC., is well known as a manufacturer of candy and as the operator of chains of retail candy stores, cigar stores and tea rooms. Recently an elaborate restaurant and tea room was opened in the Clark Building.

A large volume of business consists of the sale of candy at wholesale in the Pittsburgh district.

THE Standard Sanitary Manufacturing Company has made public an exceptionally good earnings statement. In the first six months of this year net profit after depreciation, depletion and all other charges was $3,701,432, which was equivalent to $1.11 a share on the common stock after deducting preferred dividends for the period.

This represented a satisfactory increase over the corresponding period of 1927, when $3,403,238 was reported. Based on the present capitalization of the company, this was equivalent to $1.05 a share.

IT WILL be remembered that Standard recently split its common stock on a three-for-one basis and established an annual dividend rate of $1.68 a share on the new stock.

In addition to enjoying an active demand for its products in this country, Standard has started construction of a factory in Germany, which will yield increased revenue in future years.

THE sharp increase in net earnings reported by the Transcontinental Oil Company in the second quarter was due to a favorable court decision which released earnings from previous periods. These had been tied up in litigation over some of the leases on which the company operates.

The revenue was reported as part of second quarter earnings, although it was actually secured months before.

ON account of this it is unlikely that the third quarter will duplicate the net profit of $493,612 reported for the second quarter. Losses of $70,646 were reported in the first quarter, and of $75,093 in the second quarter of 1927. The decision released gross earnings of $499,545. Signs of improvement in the oil business make it likely that increases in Transcontinental's production may be reflected in current earnings soon.

IMPROVEMENT in the earnings of the Wheeling Steel Corporation lead to the belief that the resumption of dividends on the common stock may not be far off. The company showed improvement in earnings in both the second quarter and the first half of this year.

In the three months ended June 30 net profit was $1,530,125, which was equivalent to $2.10 a share on the common stock. This compared with 91 cents a share in the preceding quarter and 48 cents a year ago. For the six months, net was $2,554,338, which was equivalent to $3.10 a share, compared with only $1.31 a share a year ago.

ON April 1, 1927, all of the accumulated but unpaid dividends on the A and B preferred stocks were paid up to date. Since then a good margin of earnings has been left for the common. In 1927 $3.48 a share was earned and in 1926 $5.96 a share was reported.

WHEELING is a fully integrated steel producer. It carries its operations from the mining of coal and ore to the production of a wide line of finished products. These include sheets, tin plate, pipe, wire, nails and a large number of fabricated sheet articles.

SUGAR MARKET.

NEW YORK, Aug. 1.—The raw sugar market was unchanged early today, with no sales reported and spot Cuban duty paid quoted at 4.02c. It was learned that Europe was inquiring for store sugar here at a price equal to 2¼c for steamer, which is believed to be more attractive than the 4.02c price prevailing here, although no sales have as yet been reported.

Under a renewal of liquidation, raw sugar futures opened unchanged to 2 points lower. The selling, evidently prompted by the disappointing London market, carried near months into new low ground for the season. Prices rallied on covering, advancing to 1 to 2 points above the previous close. This covering was influenced by the reports that European buyers were inquiring for sugars out of the local stock. The demand was soon supplied and reactions followed, with the market at midday about net unchanged.

No changes were reported in the refined situation, with prices quoted at 5.55c to 5.60c for fine granulated. A continued fair day-to-day demand was evident, but the trade showed little desire to anticipate requirements to any extent.

FINANCIAL NEWS AND VIEWS

Big Specialties Lead Rise.

A renewal rate of 7½ per cent for call loans failed to dampen the enthusiasm of the bulls on the exchange today and the upward movement of the past 10 days continued with the vigor. During the fourth hour the rate eased back to 7 per cent, meeting earlier figures prevailing in the "outside" market. Leadership of the market rested in Montgomery Ward, Atlantic Refining, American Can, Kroger Grocery, International Harvester, Case Threshing and a half dozen other high priced stocks. While no quick drop in the money rate was anticipated, the Street felt assured that the higher rates will last only until the month-end dividend and interest payments find their way back to the regular banking channels. Controversy over the matter of corporations and individuals lending money in the call money market is still raging, but the New York Clearing House is said to have the condition under consideration and some new schedule in regard to this service may be worked out. B. C. Forbes yesterday quoted Charles S. Mitchell, of the National City Bank, as being concerned over possible serious developments in connection with these outsiders' loans and it is quiet evident that the financial community cannot ignore the opinion of this authority on the subject. However, the goal is to ease the credit situation without a drastic stock market slump and this will probably be attained.

Atlantic 's Earnings Bulge.

Atlantic Refining Company reports June quarter preliminary net income of $4,332,630 after interest depreciation and tax, equal after preferred dividends to $7.96 on 500,000 common shares, compared with $1,357,357 or $2.01 a share in the previous quarter and $1,202,338 or $1.70 a share in the June, 1927, quarter. Six months net income totaled $5,689,987 or $9.97 a share on the common, comparing with net loss of $1,477,420 in the corresponding period last year. The company will issue its complete report about August 15.

Sears Roebuck Sales Soaring.

Sears Roebuck & Co. reports sales for July of $26,276,337, an increase of 25.4 per cent over the sales reported for July, 1927. Seven months sales totaled $172,375,402, an increase of 14.4 per cent over those reported for the first seven months of 1927.

Montgomery Ward Up 16.41 Per Cent.

Montgomery Ward & Co. July sales were $13,976,559, as against $12,006,312 in July, 1927, an increase of 16.41 per cent. For seven months sales totaled $110,544,474, a gain of 6.05 per cent over the 1927 period.

Storage Oil Decreases.

Total stocks of crude and refined oils on June 30 totaled 613,148,000 barrels, against 613,386,000 barrels on May 31, the peak to date, 612,674,000 in April, and 563,466,000 June 30, 1927, the Bureau of Mines announced today. Gasoline stocks totaled 34,393,000 barrels June 30, against 33,336,000 in May, and 43,768,000 in June, 1927. June was the first month to show draught on total oil stocks since August, 1926. June domestic gasoline consumption totaled 29,022,000 barrels, against 27,355,000 in May, and 27,799,000 in June, 1927. June gasoline output was 30,675,000 barrels, against 30,825,000 in May, and 26,616,000 in June, 1927. Daily gasoline stocks on June 30 were equal to 30 days supply as against 34 in May and 41 in June, 1927.

Favors the Oil Stocks.

One of the New York brokerage houses wired its local correspondent as follows: "Conditions in the oil industry are now more favorable for an advance in oil stocks than at any time in past year. Demand for high grade crude with a consequent advance in price, record breaking gasoline consumption and much higher prices for bulk gasoline, natural gasoline and at filling stations should have cumulative effect. A feature has been the advance in natural gas gasoline of almost 300 per cent in last few weeks." Phillips Petroleum is the largest producer of natural gasoline in the world.

Steel's Report Favorable.

United States Steel's earnings for the second quarter, while not up to the best preliminary expectations, were, nevertheless, entirely favorable and fully explained the accumulation of the stock over the past three weeks or so. For the six months ended June 30, the net profits were $47,200,629, against $52,465,198 in the first half of 1927. The earnings for the first half are equivalent to $4.86 a share on the common stock, which compares with $5.60 a share in the first six months of 1927. In the June quarter this year the corporation earned $2.75 a share, against $2.11 a share in the first quarter and $2.78 in the second quarter of 1927. Dividend requirements of the common stock are now $1.75 a quarter. James A. Farrell, president, stated that shipments of finished steel products in the second quarter equaled 84½ per cent of total mill capacity, against 86 per cent in the first quarter of 1928 and 84 per cent in the second quarter of 1927. Tonnage of shipments in the June quarter this year, said Mr. Farrell, exceeded the tonnage shipped in the corresponding quarter of 1927.

May's Earnings Largest.

Detailed report of Steel's second quarter earnings reflects the improvement in the industry which set in around the beginning of May. Business Sentiment Improved.

Reviewing general business conditions, the National City Bank of New York says the optimist now has distinctly the better of the argument as to whether 1928 is to show improvement over 1927, or the reverse. The last quarter of 1927 showed a let-down of activity which caused misgivings about the new year, but the first quarter of 1928 showed recovery, the second quarter gave increased confidence and the beginning of the third quarter has established a general belief that the year's record will surpass that of 1927.

Dividends and Money Rates.

One of the arguments frequently heard recently by those who are out of sympathy with any advance in the market at this time is that with the yield on high grade stocks substantially below the average cost of money no sustained upswing is justified at present. However action of the market in the past few weeks would seem to demonstrate that the outlook for continued growth in industrial earnings and the prospects for special disbursements from the more successful companies warranted further upturns in many directions. The point most often made in optimistic quarters is that the money situation is a temporary one, whereas the growth in business which is in prospect will continue for some time and justifies a bullish attitude on many of the leading industrials.

Cleveland Rediscount Raised.

The Cleveland Federal Reserve Bank has increased its rediscount rate from 4½ to 5 per cent, effective today.

See Higher Dividend on Can.

The steady buying of American Can shares is a natural sequence to the statements made at frequent intervals that the company has completed its construction account and that earnings this year will not be depleted as they had been for the past five years by development costs. Estimates from informed sources are that earnings for the current year will be between $8 and $9 a share, and it is generally agreed in those circles that a larger disbursement will be made before the end of the year. Recently some of these interests expressed the opinion that a special dividend in September is probable, but would make no definite statement what the amount would be. It is generally understood in the Street that with the heavily increased earnings, the regular dividend will be increased from $2 to $4 a year with extras as conditions warrant.

Illinois Central Prospects.

L. A. Downs, president of the Illinois Central, said the agricultural outlook in the road's territory for this time of year never was better. Corn and oats in Iowa and Illinois, and cotton in the Southern states were in excellent condition. He looked for sharp increases in coal traffic, accompanied by higher coal prices in the near future. Passenger revenues were showing declines, but the long haul freight from the steel mills near Chicago for export via New Orleans was slightly better than a year ago.

Treasury Buying Third Liberties.

Federal Reserve banks have been authorized by the United States Treasury to purchase, at the option of holders, Third Liberty Loan 4¼ Per Cent Bonds at 100 1-32 until August 15, and thereafter at par and accrued interest. June quarter profit was $956,550, or $2.86 on the common against $756,945, or $2.77 in the June quarter of 1927. Forbes Hopeful on Pierce Merger.

M. E. Forbes, president of Pierce-Arrow Motor Car Company, commenting on the present status of the Pierce Arrow-Studebaker plan said the means by which it was sought to bring about the affiliation of the two companies was by proxies and not by deposit of stock. In view of this, he said, there could not arise a situation where stock in respect of which no proxies had been given would sell in the market at a higher price than stock in respect of which proxies had been given, and that purchases of stock in the open market would necessarily be precluded, as stock so purchased might very well have already assented to the plan. Mr. Forbes expressed himself as hopeful that a sufficient number of proxies would be obtained to put the plan through.

American Light and Traction.

American Light and Traction Company and subsidiaries report for the June quarter net income of 2,105,328 after charges, equal after preferred dividends to $3.62 a share on 522,638 common shares, against $1,950,480 or $3.22 a share on 321,637 shares in the June quarter of 1927. The American Piano Company reports second quarter net income of $28,967 after interest, federal tax, etc., equal to 48 cents a share on 60,000 shares of 7 per cent preferred, comparing with $35,827 or 59 cents a share last year.

West Buying Hardware.

With seven months of the year gone, the average hardware jobber finds a sales record comparing very favorably with the same period of 1927. Current reports show that western markets are more active than those in the east. The former seem to receive stimulation from encouraging crop reports, Hardware Age will say tomorrow in its weekly hardware market summary. Practically all market centers found July a good month. There are few important price changes being made at the present time. Collections average fair. There appears to be less than usual interest for fall merchandise at this time. Ordinarily many wholesalers begin about July 15 to receive such orders for future shipment.

COTTON MARKET

NEW YORK, Aug. 1.—(AP.)—The cotton market opened steady today at a decline of 16 to 20 points under renewed liquidation and more or less general selling inspired by a more optimistic view of the crop outlook, reports of continued good weather in the South, and relatively easy Liverpool cables.

Covering and trade buying on scale down orders were insufficient to hold prices at the initial figures and stop orders were uncovered on the decline, which soon extended to 19.64c for December or about 27 to 33 points net lower. The market was still more or less unsettled and prices were within 3 or 4 points of the lowest at the end of the first hour.

Liverpool cables reported general liquidation and short selling in Liverpool and that cloth buyers were holding off in anticipation of lower prices.

The early break of about 28 to 33 points was followed by moderate rallies on reports that Manchester labor troubles had been settled and a less favorable weekly weather report. The season-end figures from New Orleans, placing the world's consumption of American cotton at 15,838,000 bales and the carry over at 5,298,000, caused further weakness, however, and the market was nervous and unsettled after their publication. December broke to 19.44c, with active months showing net losses of 45 to 53 points before the decline was checked. The pressure subsided somewhat at these figures, and at midday the market was less active, with prices showing rallies of 8 or 9 points from the lowest.

STEEL DEMAND EXPANDING

NEW YORK, Aug. 1.—The Iron Age in its weekly summary of the iron and steel trade says: Market developments in steel are on the up side. Demand, which brought July output close to that of June, shows more of a tendency to expand than to contract in August. Bookings with most companies have slightly exceeded shipments, and unfilled orders have thus gained in the past month. There is less selling pressure, and from all the main producing centers is reported a gathering of price firmness as a result. Also here and there is evidence of a dispositon to cover for forward business.

Operations are easily at a 75 per cent of capacity rate, sustained by buying which is chiefly for immediate needs from many varied consuming industries and no one of these is promising an early increase of notable proportions.

Important action has just been taken in the sheet trade by the American Rolling Mill Company, with indications it will be followed by other sheet makers generally. Instead of allowing a discount of 2 per cent for payments in 10 days, the discount will be ½ per cent, as has applied for years to practically all hot rolled products. This change in trade practice may add $4,000,000 to $5,000,000 per annum to sheet mill incomes.

Pig iron returns for July, collected by telegraph, with all producers heard from and estimating the last two days, showed a production of 3,063,841 gross tons, or 98,834 tons a day, compared with 3,082,000 tons in June, or 102,733 tons a day. The recession is thus 3.8 per cent, but the daily output in July, 1927, which was 95,199 tons, fell off over 7¼ per cent from June, 1927. On August 1 there were 185 furnaces active, four less than on July 1.

Both of the Iron Age composite prices remain at last week's levels. That for pig iron is $17.04 a ton and that for finished steel is 2.319c a pound.

SEVERS TOE SPLITTING WOOD AT CONNELLSVILLE

CONNELLSVILLE, Pa., Aug. 1.—Using a hatchet to split wood, Joseph McManus cut off the big toe of his right foot when the tool slipped.

NARROW PRICE MOVEMENT IN LEADING SECURITIES

Stocks continued to fluctuate over a narrow price range on the Pittsburgh Stock Exchange today. Early quotations showed only minor changes from the previous closings and dealings were for the most part in odd lots or blocks of less than 100 shares.

The Standard Sanitary issues were both handled at small recessions from the previous prices. The common stock appeared on the board at the opening at 38⅛, as compared with the previous close at 38¼, and later sold at 38. A small lot of the preferred changed hands at 127, down a point from the preceding sale.

The fuel issues did not display the activity noted in the late dealings yesterday, nor was there any change noted in the prices at which the few forenoon trades were made. Carnegie Metals was steady at 18½, but very quiet. Westinghouse Airbrake sold at 45, equal to the close in New York last night. An odd lot of Waverly Oil sold at 33, unchanged.

THE PRODUCE MARKET

Dealings at the local wholesale produce district for fruit and vegetables were fair today. The quotations were about unchanged.

The butter, egg and cheese markets were firm. No change was made in the quotations.

Poultry supplies were liberal, with the market steady, demand fair and quotations about unchanged.

Car lot supplies were liberal, a total of 669 cars being on track. Arrivals included 5 cars of apples, 3 cabbage, 18 cantaloupes, 9 grapes, 3 lemons, 4 onions, 3 oranges, 11 peaches, 2 pears, 1 potatoes, 1 sweet potatoes, 5 tomatoes and 17 watermelons.

BUGS BAER Says

(Copyright, 1928.)

GOLF barons have finally dashed forward with one of their famous delayed decisions. This belated ruling deals with the conceded putt.

ARTHUR "BUGS" BAER

Before golf became a pastime it was a rule that every putt must be holed.

The first conceded putt was the bright idea of a semi-pro. Being stymied by his opponent's marble on the green he did a tail-spin into rapid calculation and realized that the stymie would cost two strokes. One to get around the stymie and another to sink.

Therefore, he said to his opponent, "Pick up the agate. I concede your putt."

The sap followed the instruction on the label and picked up. The semi-pro then ran down his own putt in one. And won the hole.

After that, the conceded putt became popular. Turf-wallopers and tree-choppers gradually increased the length of the conceded putt. It grew to a yard, 15 feet and finally, when anybody managed to reach the green, the putt was conceded.

Now, the boys are conceding niblick shots.

Next week they will concede brassie wallops.

Around September, two pros will be on the eleventh tee. Say Johnny Farrell is playing Hagen. Johnny will be teeing up when Hagen will ask, "How long is this hole, Johnny?"

Johnny will remark, "Only 784 yards."

Hagen will say, "Is that all? I concede this hole to you, John."

It will not stop there. Nobody will play golf much because dubs will concede the entire 18 holes.

A man who pays fifteen hundred a year to belong to the exclusive Lost Divot club will start out on a week-end to play golf. When he reaches his club he will find a For Sale sign on the gate. A generous caddy has just conceded the entire golf club to a bum on a bicycle.

We are glad that the Committee on Nobody's Business has decided to scotch the concession snake before it reached that point where the contents of a locker were unsafe.

CROSSING CRASH VICTIM SUES P.& L.E. FOR $50,000

Damages of $50,000 are asked by Joseph Balogh in a suit he filed against the Pittsburgh & Lake Erie Railroad Company in Common Pleas Court yesterday. He was struck by a train while crossing the tracks near his home in Hays borough April 18. His skull was fractured, his right arm broken and several ribs fractured.

SPORTING LIFE.
(Lamar, Mo., Democrat)

Lamar and Mulberry's ball game Sunday ended in a big row. When Burks went to bat Houderscheldt ran for him, as he always does. When Houderscheldt was on second Bumgarner, who was judging the balls, called him to bat, and as he couldn't leave second and come, Bumgarner called him out. It was the ninth inning, with Lamar one behind. Thompson, who umpired the bases, wouldn't stand for this decision. The winners were to take all the gate receipts. The game ended in a row and the proceeds of the game are tied up in the bank.

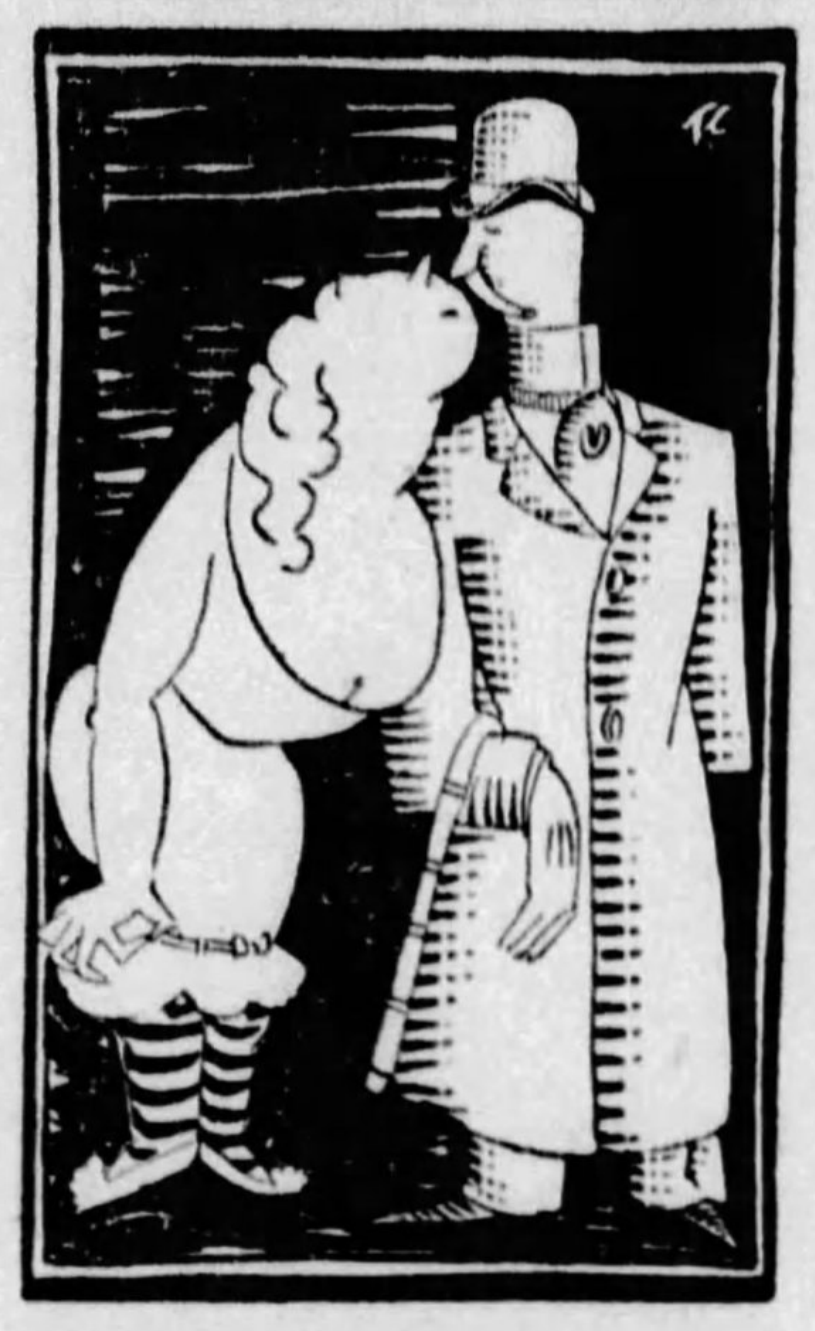
Or Mr. Hardcastle's Friendly Attentions, and What Came of Them.



Synopsis—Sir Harry Doncaster tells his wife, Elsie De Vaux, that he considers it his duty to call upon Miss ———, his childhood sweetheart, who is a stranger in the city. Elsie tells Harry to do what he thinks best, although the words catch in her swan-like throat, as she embroiders a tiny garment.

"NIL DESPEDANDUM"

"LIKE yourself, dear Elsie!" said Sir Harry, brushing her cheek lightly with a hasty kiss. Half an hour afterwards he emerged from his dressing chamber, where he had made himself unnecessarily handsome by a most careful toilet.

Elsie complimented him on his neat appearance and gave him her usual warm-hearted kiss as he hastily, and no doubt nervously, left.

As Harry paused at the curb he said to himself, "By Jove, how glad I am she is not jealous. By Jove, some women would have made a scene!"

Short-sighted Harry!

China Knows That U. S. Friendship Speaks The Language of Action

Thanks to the clear vision and active sympathy of our Secretary of State at Washington, the United States is now dealing with the new government of China in a way that accords with the best American traditions and entitles Secretary Kellogg to the thanks and congratulations of all his countrymen.

Without waiting to see what the rest of the world would do, without scheming to secure for his own country unfair advantages, Secretary Kellogg has concluded a new tariff treaty with China that gives complete control of their own tariffs to the Chinese people.

By the terms of this new treaty all provisions in former treaties fixing rates of duty, transit dues, drawbacks and tonnage dues are repealed. China is free, so far as the United States can free her, to raise whatever revenues the Chinese require to maintain their new government and give it the wherewithal to discharge the duties of sovereignty at home and abroad.

Here is the opportunity that China craves and deserves, but until now has been denied.

Here is American action in support of China that speaks louder than could the friendliest American words the sincerity and the power of American friendship for China.

Secretary Kellogg's practical idealism in dealing so promptly, sympathetically, and helpfully with the new government is all the more gratifying to the Hearst newspapers because it follows the policy for which these newspapers have always stood. This policy they have repeatedly recommended in recent weeks to the government at Washington.

A month ago, a week ago and again only a few days ago, the Hearst newspapers called for the acceptance by the United States of the Nationalist government as the representative government of China. In an editorial within the month calling upon the United States to "recognize China now and make friends of 400,000,000 people," Mr. Hearst said:

> American recognition of the Chinese government should not wait on China's concessions to the selfish interests of imperialistic European nations. The main purpose of the Chinese revolution was to secure an independent China and to free China from foreign domination and from unjust and unjustifiable acquisitions by foreign nations of territory privileges within the domain of China.
> We cannot expect China to give up the chief object of her long struggle for independence merely to secure American recognition.
> It is only 150 years since we were winning our independence. We should not so soon forget the experiences and sentiments of that inspiring period. It is "the shot that was heard around the world" which is now echoing in China.
> Let us not repudiate our own principles and purposes to our own discredit and disadvantage. Let us not scorch our own fingers by attempting to pull chestnuts of European nations out of the fire.

By acting independently and promptly to give China complete control of her own tariffs, the United States has gone to the support of popular government in China at a time and in a way that the people of China will always remember with gratitude.

Secretary Kellogg's new tariff treaty with China is already hailed there by the Chinese General Chamber of Commerce at Shanghai as "an evidence of American fair play, progressiveness and friendship that usher in a new era in Chinese-American relations."

When the rest of the world wakes up to the effect throughout China of Secretary Kellogg's hospitality toward the Nationalist government there, we shall probably see the foreign powers, one by one, following the leadership that the United States again raised up in giving to China the square deal that her 400,000,000 people have long deserved.

Meantime, and in any event, China will know that the friendship of the United States speaks the language of action and China will not forget.

Position of Our Pirates Shows Game Is Uncertain

For no reason at all, we call attention to the Pirates. No, we are not talking about "fining squires." The subject in hand is the Pittsburgh National League baseball team, champion of the ancient and honorable organization devoted to the furtherance of the national pastime, so-called.

By winning two games in Boston in one afternoon the Buccaneers climbed to the top—of the second division. Picked "repeat" their triumph of last season, our brave baseball s have been having an uphill fight to keep out of the unified position in the league standing known as the cellar. re optimistic enough to believe that they will be able to t for the remainder of the season.

The Pirates present a strange development. With their hitters, speedy base-runners and fast fielders, they are getting anywhere. As a club they have been hitting well ve .300 for the season while their opponents have been hitting only .270 in their games against the Corsairs. Throughout the season they have averaged two batsmen among the five leading hitters of the league.

The inability of the pitchers to get going until recently has been decided upon as the trouble with the Pirates, yet with all that slugging ability one might think they would be able to club their way to victory despite weakness on the mound. A team that is hitting .311 for the season at the beginning of August ought to be able to spot its .270 opponents about three runs in every game and still win.

It all goes to prove that baseball is the most uncertain of games. In fact, it is so uncertain that a consistent winning streak on the part of the Corsairs and a place near the top of the first division is not an impossibility. Cheer up.

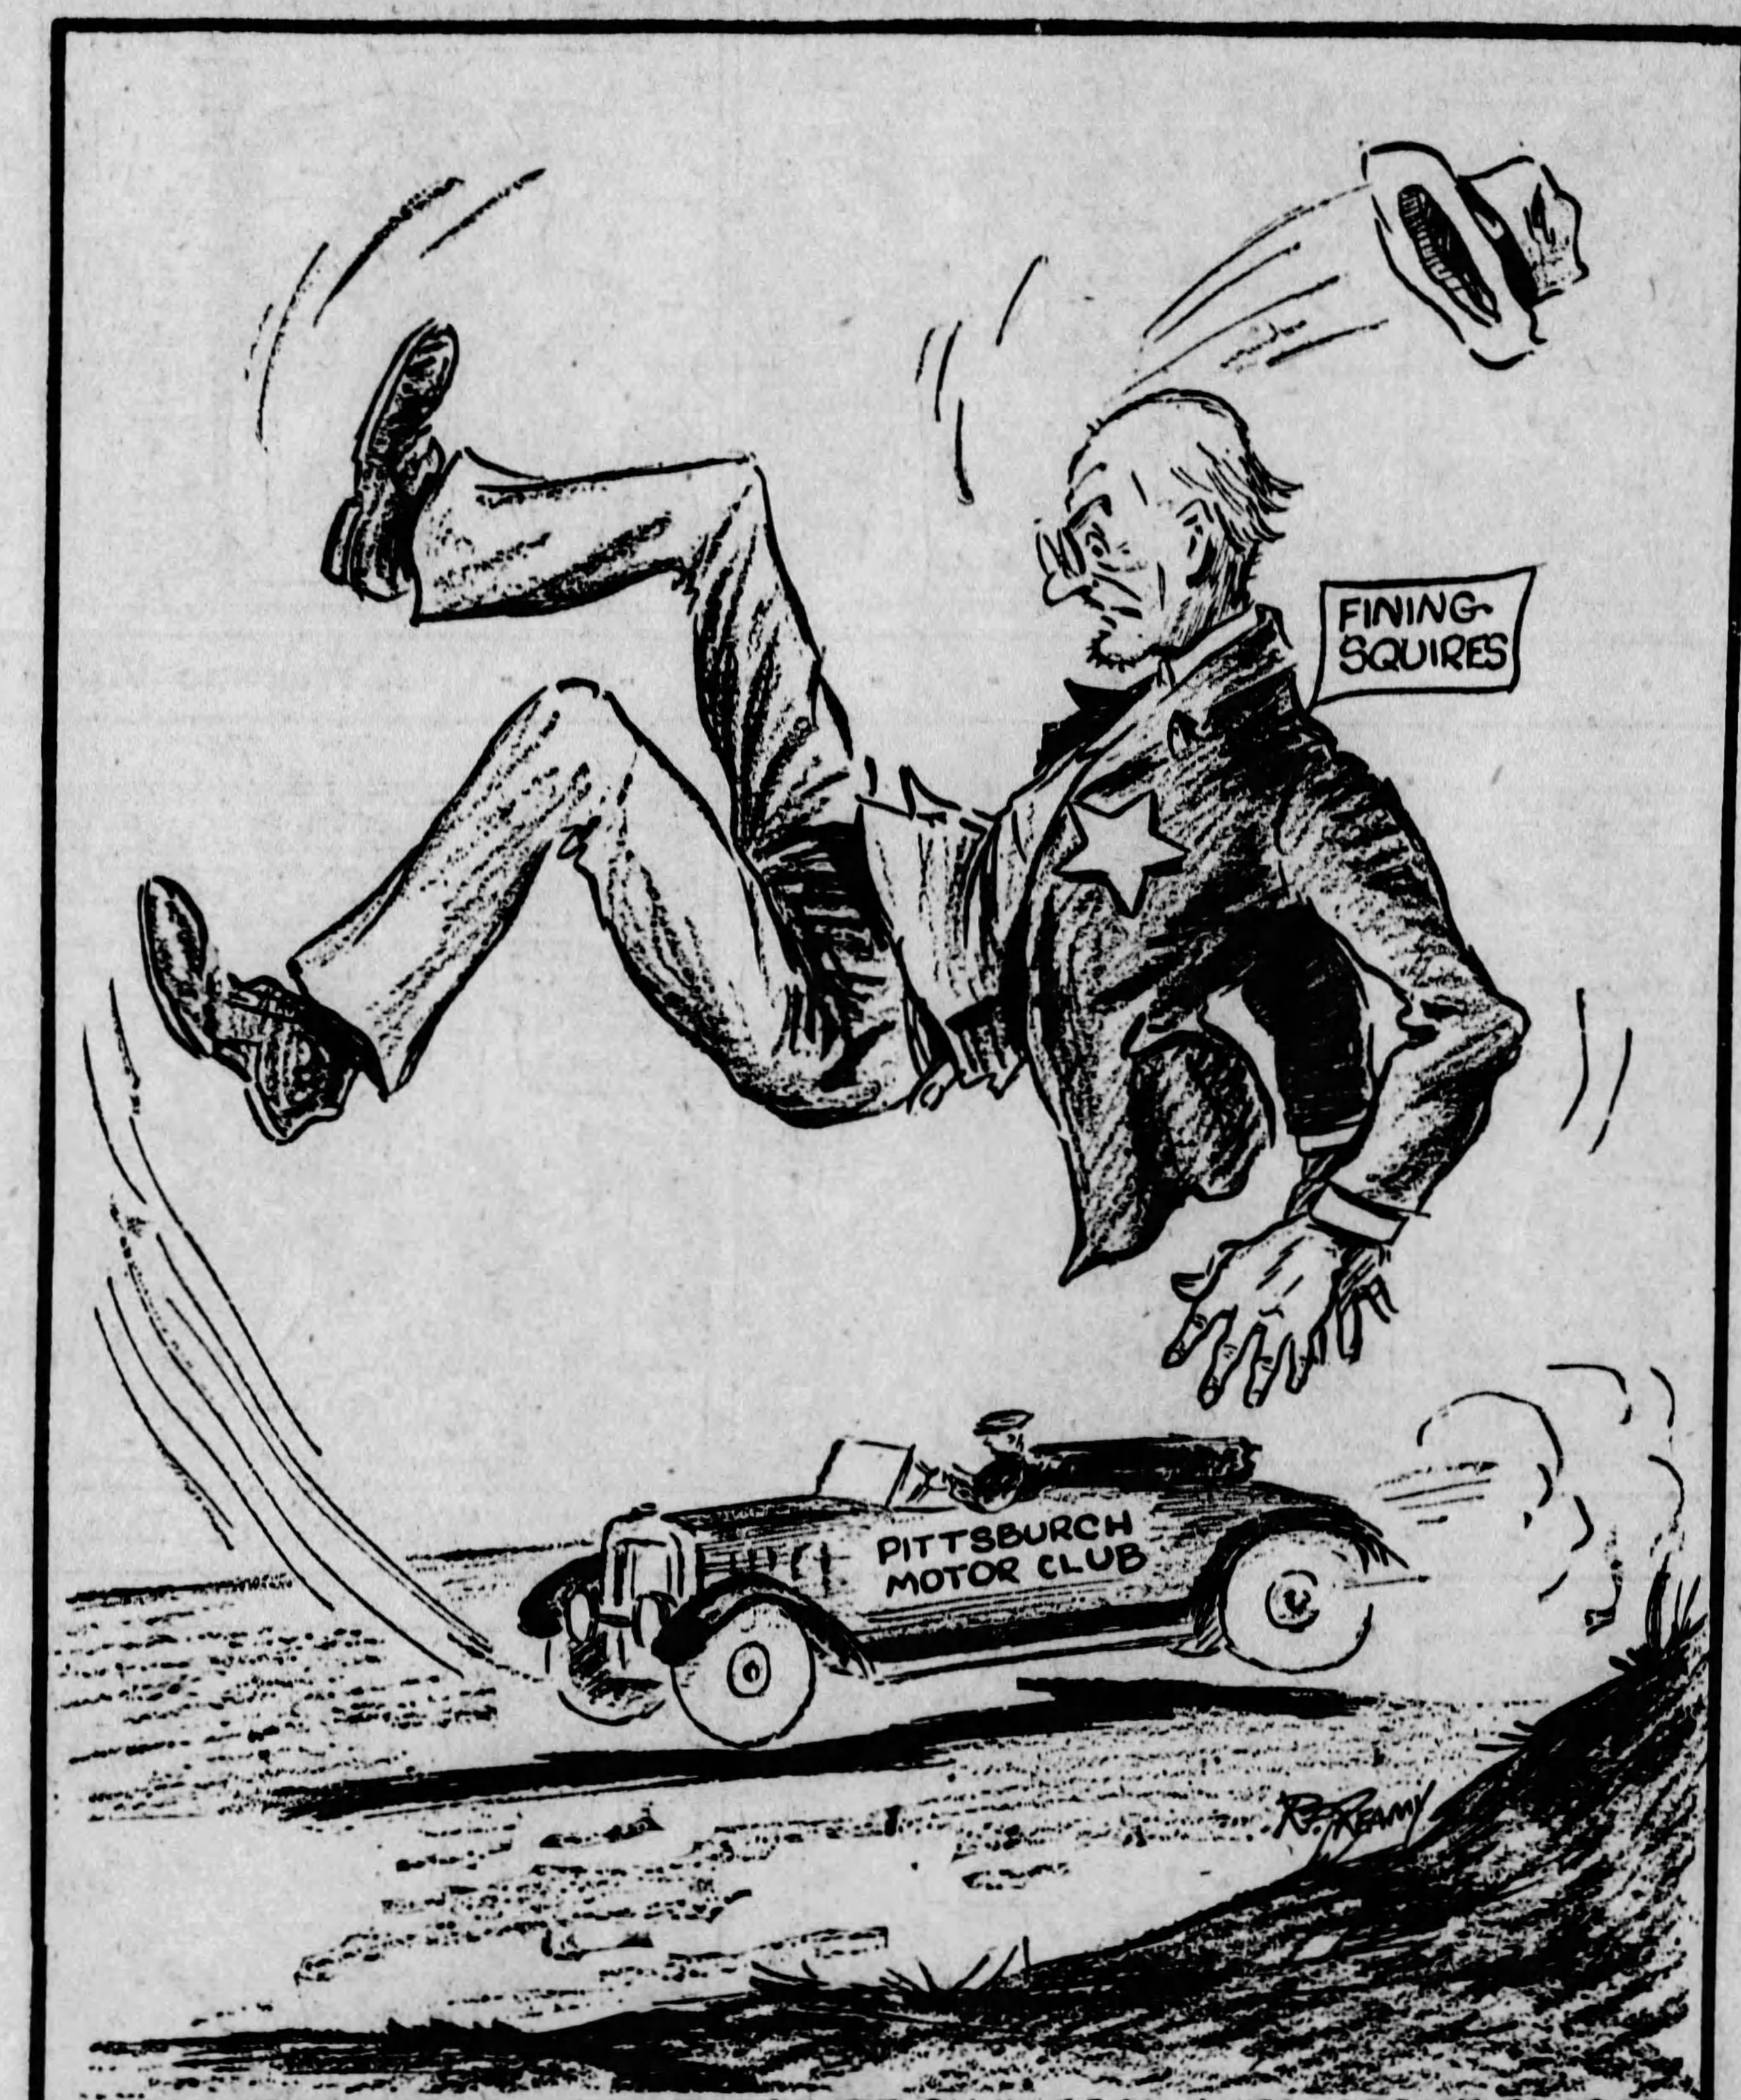
England's Gold

She Has Lots of It.

The great Bank of England, affectionately called "The Old Lady of Threadneedle Street," has the greatest gold accumulation in all its history. The bank added more than a million pounds of gold in one week recently.

When Uncle Sam was piling up gold, John Bull warned us that it was DANGEROUS and UNHEALTHY, and we ought to get rid of it. But it's all right, presumably, when the gold is in Threadneedle Street.

STRIKING BACK!



NEWS NOTE--POLICEMAN HELD FOR COURT ON ILLEGAL AUTO ARREST CHARGE

Garrett P. Serviss Says:

Painting the Sky

GEN. DELCAMBRE, the director of the French National Meteorological Office, has called particular attention to the landscapes, marines and cloud paintings of Pierre Fleury, on account of their admirably correct representation of the various aspects of the day sky, and particularly of cloud forms, colors and associations. M. Fleury acquired his skill and judgment in this matter at the time when he was associated with the Meteorological Office.

Gen. Delcambre describes some of his experiences in visiting art exhibitions with an eye to the meteorological qualities of the landscape paintings on view. He remarks that artists generally show themselves as careless or as ignorant about clouds as they do about the moon. Everybody knows that artists often treat the new moon as disrespectfully as the average man handles a baby, but Gen. Delcambre finds that their treatment of clouds is equally incorrect and unnatural.

He speaks of seeing among the pictures "stormy skies not containing a single storm cloud," and describes a picture of a rainbow by a "peintre madaille," which was "an absurdity, with regard both to the nature of the clouds and the position of the sun relative to them." Such contempt for the laws of nature, he insists, is incompatible with the production of veritable works of art, for in art as in science the truth should be the object aimed at, and no work is truly beautiful unless it succeeds in expressing it."

Gen. Delcambre then proceeds interestingly to point out wherein the painter, Pierre Fleury, in forming whose skill in this respect the General takes a little credit to himself, has produced "an innovation, not to say a revolution." For the first time since the eighteenth century, he avers, one can see pictures painted with an accurate knowledge of skies. But if the Hollanders, in particular (in the eighteenth century), in the study of the fine atmosphere of their country, practiced meteorology without knowing it, Pierre Fleury, on the contrary, knows exactly what he is painting, and if the skies that his pencil has rendered with trained talent were described to a meteorologist the latter would immediately understand their scientific characters.

Going into detail, he continues: Pierre Fleury is not ignorant that there are kinds of clouds that are never seen together in the sky, and that swear against being accoupled. He knows that the transparence of the air is incompatible with certain cloud forms, and he would never be guilty of painting distant horizons with sharp contours lying under clouds that shed mist. All his skies correspond to actual atmospheric situations which one could connect with a weather chart, and the color that he gives to his clouds indicates exactly the hour of the day when they were painted. He has even made a study with a success that it is a pleasure to note, of those delicate clouds which people the higher regions of the atmosphere, and of which no painter before him has ventured to essay the representation."

The reader will probably find in the above much that he had not thought of, and that will surprise him. It is a new subject, at least as far as the lay public is concerned, and when next you go to look at landscape pictures you may find it instructive as well as entertaining to observe what impressions you get as to the veritude of the painter's skies.

Paper Ships

THE greatest handicap to our Navy has been the practice of Congress to "authorize" the construction of vessels and then forget to "appropriate" money for building them.

We need destroyer leaders and fleet submarines, that is, submarines with sufficient radius of action to accompany the fleet on long-distance cruises.

The act of August 29, 1916, authorized 12 destroyer leaders, for which no construction appropriations have yet been made.

That same act likewise authorized three fleet submarines, which are still waiting for their appropriations, 12 years later.

An adequate cruiser construction bill passed the House last session, but was caught in the Senate's legislative jam.

This bill retains its preferred place on the calendar, and will come up early in December. It should be passed and its appropriation supplemented by a vote of money for the needed submarines and destroyer leaders.

Once Overs

"Let Joy Be Unconfined"

DON'T allow yourself to become bored by the things within your reach.

It takes interest in things to produce the mood to procure better.

It is unwise to be completely satisfied with small possessions.

But there should be a certain satisfaction in results or gains.

It is difficult to formulate plans for a brighter future when your frame of mind is one of dejection.

With a dark perspective you can't see the future clearly enough.

You must feel joy in what you have, and seek for better possessions.

You must be able to picture what you would like in the future.

You must have an imagination vivid enough to see the way to that home of dreams come true.

Your present outlook has a direct bearing upon your future success.

Don't encourage gloomy thoughts.

Dark days will come, even when you fight against them.

But it is your fault if you nourish the thought of despair and failure.

So appreciate the good you have and let joy in little things encourage you to aim high.

The Rhyming Optimist

By ALINE MICHAELS

All Unafraid

SO many turns I do not know
As down dark ways I grope,
And yet all unafraid I go
Because I trust, I hope.

I trust, and who dares call it vain,
This deathless faith of mine
That flowers still through grief, through pain,
A heritage divine?

I hope, and who would quench the spark
So faint, so far away?
A feeble flicker through the dark,
Yet herald of the day!

Because of trust, of hope and love
My armor is complete;
And, dark or sunlit, all ways prove
Serene and very sweet.

Stars and Stripes

The word "obey" has been dropped from the Scotch marriage ceremony. Why waste a word?

AN EXPLANATION—They call it Broadway so nobody will take it for the straight and narrow path.

Edison is opposed to cigaret smoking during working hours. His slogan is: "Don't roll 'em on the payroll."

GEOGRAPHY LESSON —The Corn Belt is that section of the country where corn is sold by the bushel, not by the quart.

The house in which John D. Rockefeller was born is to be removed to Coney Island, where it may be seen for 10 cents. Why waste your dime on a "hot dog?"

Great Passages from the Bible

The Lord's Prayer

(Matthew 6; 5-15)

AND when thou prayest, thou shalt not be as the hypocrites are: for they love to pray standing in the synagogues and in the corners of the streets, that they may be seen of men. Verily I say unto you, They have their reward.

But thou, when thou prayest, enter into thy closet, and when thou hast shut thy door, pray to thy Father which is in secret; and thy Father which seeth in secret shall reward thee openly.

But when ye pray, use not vain repetitions, as the heathen do: for they think that they shall be heard for their much speaking.

Be not ye therefore like unto them: for your Father knoweth what things ye have need of, before ye ask him.

After this manner therefore pray ye: Our Father which art in heaven, Hallowed be thy name.

Thy kingdom come. Thy will be done in earth, as it is in heaven.

Give us this day our daily bread.

And forgive us our debts, as we forgive our debtors.

And lead us not into temptation, but deliver us from evil: For thine is the kingdom, and the power, and the glory, for ever. Amen.

For if ye forgive men their trespasses, your heavenly Father will also forgive you:

But if ye forgive not men their trespasses, neither will your Father forgive your trespasses.

Tales that are Told

Worst Story I Have Heard Today

By WILL ROGERS

ONE of the stories they tell about an animal trainer may have some little truth in it. They say this guy used to do the old trick of putting his head in the lion's mouth. He was good, and he made a hit with the reporters. So he got a lot of pieces in the papers about himself, and he wanted more money. So when he didn't get it he quit.

But the boss was mad. Somebody that wanted to write a piece about the lion-tamer said to the boss, "What did you let Johnson go for? That stunt of putting his head in the lion's mouth was the best thing you had in the show."

"Yes, but you reporters spoiled it. His head swelled up so he cracked the lion's jaw, and I had to let him go."

Echo Answers—

THE tourists, having lunched at the hotel, climbed to the top of the famous Echoing Mountain. There they saw an old man sitting on a rock, a telescope a yard long in his hands. Every few minutes he would let out a series of loud whoops.

The puzzled tourists looked and listened for some time. Then they went up to the old man, and one of them said:

"Why do you keep on looking through your telescope and then yelling as if you were hurt?"

The old man answered impatiently:

"If you talk to me you'll distract my attention and I'll lose my job. I'm the echo for this 'ere 'ill!"

Turning the Tables

IT WAS Maloney's first morning on his new job and a practical joker, seizing his opportunity as the Irishman was absent, drew a lifelike portrait of a donkey's head on the back of Maloney's jacket.

Later on, Maloney picked up his coat and was in the act of scrambling into it, when a burst of derisive laughter made him hesitate and examine the garment.

Suddenly he caught a glimpse of the chalk marks.

"An' which of ye spalpeens wiped your dirty face on me coat?" he asked insolently, holding the garment up in front of him.

New York Day by Day

by

O. O. McINTYRE

NEW YORK, Aug. 1.—The business of being a ch in America has not attained the dignity it has in Europe, b makes headway. The newly imported chef is now snap-shott at the dock with other celebrities and questioned by reporter

Their salaries in New York range from $5,000 to $25,000 a year. The European chef usually comes to the calling by family inheritance—his father, grandfather and so on were chefs. Since the seventeenth century one family in Germany has given each generation an illustrious chef.

The skill of a superior chef depends largely upon his sense of taste. He never smokes, for fear of injury to his palate. Nearly all have an academic education, many being graduates of law and medical schools before taking up the culinary art.

The European chef arrives at his life's work by gradual stages. He must serve his apprenticeship in lowly scullery posts, as a bus boy, waiter, waiter captain and, most important of all, as head waiter. Here he learns much of the cuisine desires of people.

Some spend months acquiring the knack of mixing salad dressing and sauces. Perhaps the best known chefs are Oscar, of the Waldorf, and the late Cesare Ritz, who founded the chain of hotels bearing his name. Ritz died a millionaire and Oscar is extremely wealthy.

The chef leads a cloistered life. He makes few friends and it is one of the traditions he never be seen mingling in fashionable public places. This is not due to a feeling of inferiority, for the good chef considers himself a true artist. His seclusion adds attractive mystery to cooking.

Most chefs are artistically inclined. They spend off hours in the galleries and are adroit collectors. They have the manners of a Chesterfield. Many have met royalty and had intimate peeps behind the curtains of the great.

This story of a Long Island dinner bobs up frequently. A lady wore a ring with a large square diamond. A gentleman at her side asked if he might inspect it. It was handed him, and in turn handed to several others. It did not come back to t owner. There was a scene.

The host arose and said doubt the whole thing was a joke carr too far. To save embarrassment he would turn off the lights and place a gold box in the center of the table and he felt certain the ring would be dropped into the box.

After a few seconds' wait in the dark there was the plink of a ring falling into the box. "If you are ready," said the host, "I will ask you to respond to the roll call with 'Yes.'" This was done. The room was suddenly flooded with light. And the box was gone.

Coming out parties for debutantes are losing favor. The impression has been driven home by critics and writers that a debut is another way of putting a marriageable maid on the auction block—a public manifesto she is in the matrimonial market, and may the richest man win. The effort of many to outdo others in giving coming out parties has almost bankrupted several families. Some hotels where smart debuts take place demand payment in advance unless the extreme wealth of the parents make it unnecessary. They have been stung too often to take further chances.

Few cities are so thoughtful of birds as this. In some residential sections there is a bird bath to every block. And in public squares at dusk are always those who never fail in wind, snow or rain to scatter crumbs.

Birds are all right, but a lot of folk shrink from going out of our way to encourage them. Their habit of collecting at 4 a. m. outside a bedroom window to pass nasty remarks to each other seems inconsiderate. The bird many enjoy most comes on a piece of toast with a cold bottle and doesn't warble a note.

Pioneers

By DR. FRANK CRANE.

And now Capt. Charles Kingsford-Smith, Capt. Charles Ulm, and their American navigator and radio operator are to be added to the list of pioneers.

They flew from San Francisco to Sidney, a distance of 7,347 miles, at an average speed of 88 miles an hour.

Not long ago Lindbergh flew across the Atlantic to Paris and Capt. Nobile made another trip to the North Pole.

Every few days somebody is doing something new in the air. Records are crashing all about us. Many lives have been lost in unsuccessful experiments.

These adventurers are marking the way for the progress in air travel. Somebody has to go before and show the way in all forms of progress. The early settlers in the United States risked their lives and often lost them in subduing the wilderness. Where once there was a body of hardy pioneers there are now growing farms and populous cities.

The sons of Martha are always building bridges, laying out railroads, fighting savages and risking all sorts of perils to make way for civilization.

We ourselves are now living in comparative security in countries that were won for us by the pioneers.

Where now are the populous cities of Omaha and San Francisco or for that matter even of Philadelphia and Boston, pioneers once risked their lives facing the perils of the unknown.

In a few years fat merchants and their bejeweled wives will be riding comfortably along the paths marked out for them by Lindbergh and Kingsford-Smith.

It takes all sorts of people to make a world, and the most indispensable kind of folk are those who take their lives in their hands and blaze the trail for the rest of us. We cannot think too often, however, of the saying of Emerson, "Adventurers can no longer go in the Mayflower from England to Plymouth Rock, they can only sail from righteousness to righteousness." We need the spiritually bold and adventurous as well as those who are physically unafraid.

We can never realize how much we are indebted to such men as Noguchi and Lindbergh until civilization has settled down and we have entered into the fruits of their enterprise.

The main thing that we can learn from the experiments in flying is that permanent progress in flying, or transportation by air, depends upon the efforts of properly trained fliers and perfection of the machinery.

OH, THESE WOMEN!

By LEOLA ALLARD

WOMEN who sit at home and knit, don't meet many men. Women who don't meet many men don't get very far either with business or with romance.

Lord Birkenhead, British secretary for India, says that women are and always will be a failure in business. One reason, he says, is that a woman can't direct her own sex, and the other is that if she is promoted to a high position she is more than likely to desert it for marriage.

Righto!

What fun is there in working for a woman who knows all the tricks? Tell one of these strong, fine women bosses that you are desperately blue. She will tell you to snap out of it.

Tell her you haven't had any sleep, terrible insomnia. She will calmly inform you that if you'd stay out of night clubs and parked automobiles, you WOULD sleep.

Speak of a headache and she will shove you a pill and tell you to get back on the job.

But a man? Oh, my dear! He wants to hear your troubles. He wants you to go home and take precious good care of yourself. The net result in work is pretty nearly nil, but it's a circus for a man, having around the office some nicely dressed, good looking, carefully marcelled young women that HE can boss. Then he doesn't want to. It is especially nice when men have habitually irate wives at home who boss them.

You don't find many women envying big business women and women politicians, unless they are handsome and have their pictures in the papers entirely surrounded by men.

Even young girls rather work in factories at small wages than be domestic servants with more money. They want to work with and for men with whom they can flirt. With possible husbands.

Successful business women who have remained unmarried, eventually try to gather about themselves some sort of home life. A makeshift for what they wanted all the time. Many of them adopt children. Most successful business women are whistling in the dark. They have their living to make and they try to be good sports about it.

I once knew of two spinster women who had been in business for 20 years. They made money, but were wretchedly unhappy. So they adopted an infant. They didn't have enough money to give up business, so they kept the baby in their very luxurious living quarters in an apartment building, above their stores.

Those women had become so sour on the world for having cheated them, that they literally barked at the customers. Lord how sorry I felt for that baby! It is probably killed with kindness by this time.

You never could get those women to admit that a business life wasn't at all what they wanted.

Most women business successes are failures who have turned their disappointment into hard work. A creditable performance to be sure. The really happy women are those with husbands and children to worry about.
